Time off

June '87 was here and excitement was in the air. Everyone was talking about his or her summer plans, from vacations to parties, from summer jobs to summer sports.

Some of our students had the experience of participating in a very exciting trip to Germany. They stayed with host families for three weeks. Our students also visited German classrooms and went sight seeing around the country. Junior Danielle Benard stayed with the Weiss family.

"It was a good experience to learn about another culture. Their way of life is quite different from ours. Seeing the castles and sights that are hundreds of years old, one feels strange to know that history occurred there," said Danielle.

Junior Robert Clark traveled to Spain in mid July for three days. Not only was this trip wonderful for him, but it was also educational.

"My first stop was Barcelona, Spain. The scenery was just marvelous. There were many industrial buildings of many colors. The Spanish are people of intense energy and joy," said Robert.

Many Comets had summer jobs, trying to earn a few bucks to spend during the upcoming school year. Some worked full-time and others part, but all still enjoyed their summer vacation as much as they could.

The summer of 1987 was an exciting time for many, but it went by like everything else in life, incredibly fast.

With WHS so close to the beach, many students enjoy riding the waves and eating the sand during their time off.

Being the ideal sports fans, Audrea Harris and Kelly Kriwanek traveled to Elks, Nevada, for a baseball tournament.

Lounging around at Jeana Lancaster's party, Ronica Rodriguez, Tanya Baker, and Amanda Purcell enjoy the hot jacuzzi water.

Horseback riding in Mazatlan, Mexico, gave Tom Denne some fun and excitement.

Ready to travel to Salzburg, Austria, Kevin Sherwood, Amanda Purcell, Tanya Baker, Kim Ri-chan, and David Gordon take their seats at the back of the bus.

Olympics

Jump! Dive! Throw! Sound like a different lunch time activity to you? It's not.

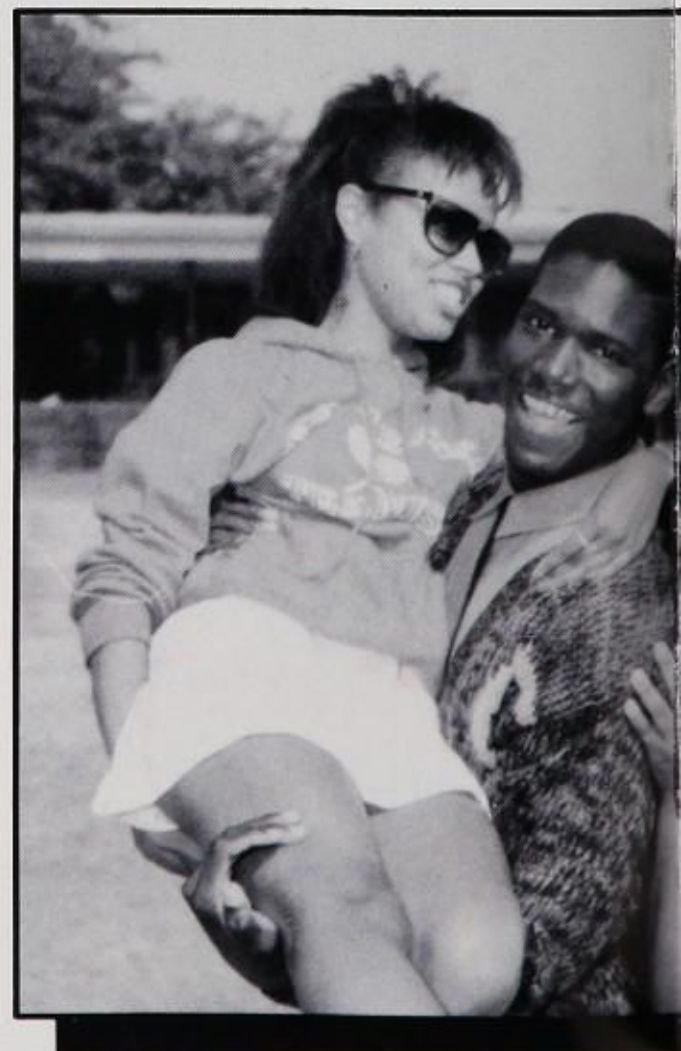

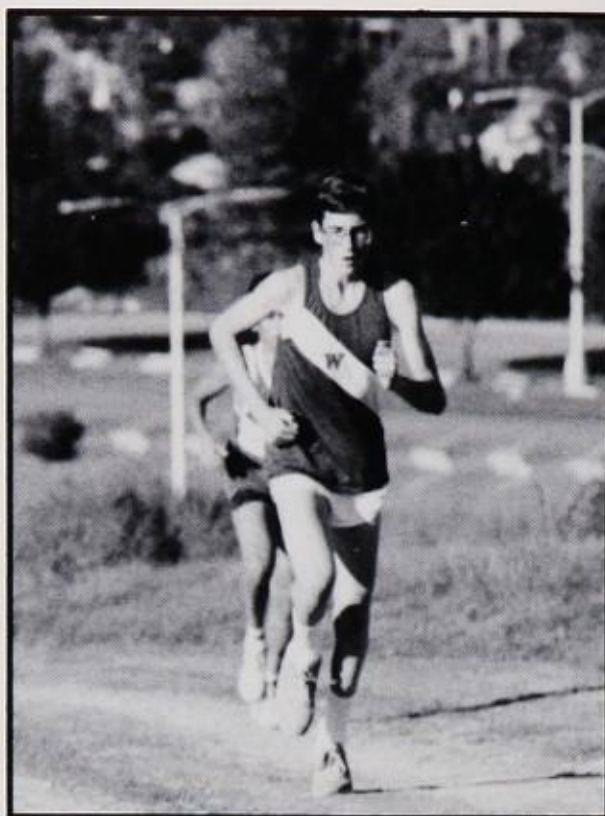

It's time for the Olympic Games.

The 1988 Olympic Games will be in Seoul, Korea.

But, with our talented athletes, Westchester could hold its own Olympics. Ranging from track to weight lifting, Comets are active in many Olympic sports. In fact, several are Olympic bound.

So Comets, look around. The people you know today may be gold medalists tomorrow.

The Pope

Even though we lived in a place called C-town, there was still another town out there which affected our lives as Comets.

The beginning of the school year was heralded by the Pope's visit to Southern California. Because of his visit, Comets, along with the rest of LAUSD students, were given an extra day of summer vacation.

to remember

Good Times

The spirit of Westchester shines through C-Town.

The place is filled with good times, games, dances, and people. One will remember these things long after graduation.

Once a person visits C-Town, he will want to come back. Most folks only have four years to spend in this educational, fun haven. An I.D. card is a Comer's ticket into C-Town.

C-Town is filled with spirit. It is fun and best of all, C-Town is "Kickin' It."

Kelly Bailey represents the many smiles of C-Town.

Damon Greene hoists Rikki Hughes as Delisa Williams pleads to be next.

Cross Country runner struggles up hill at a rate at Pierce College.

John Mack and Tammie Sadler enjoy a wonderful view of the Senior Lawn from a classroom window.

Sharing a quiet moment in the hall, Monica Peterson and David Zvein talk about the upcoming game.

C-town's

C-Town is kicking it, and kicking it is exactly what Comets liked to do during their time off. From studying in the library to mingling with the stars, Westchester students always found something to do with their time.

Though all students enjoyed just kicking back, many students had to work during their time off.

"I enjoy working at Nordstroms because it's a really classy place, but I always try to find time to sit back and relax," Rikki Hughes said.

So Comets, take a deep breath and relax. School was meant to be fun!

Like just about every lady Comet, Shelly Avery enjoys spending her time shopping at the Fox Hills Mall after school.

While dancing at the Homecoming Dance, Devon Lancaster, Steve Sherman, Jeana Lancaster and Kim Richan talk about the poor attendance of the very well put together dance.

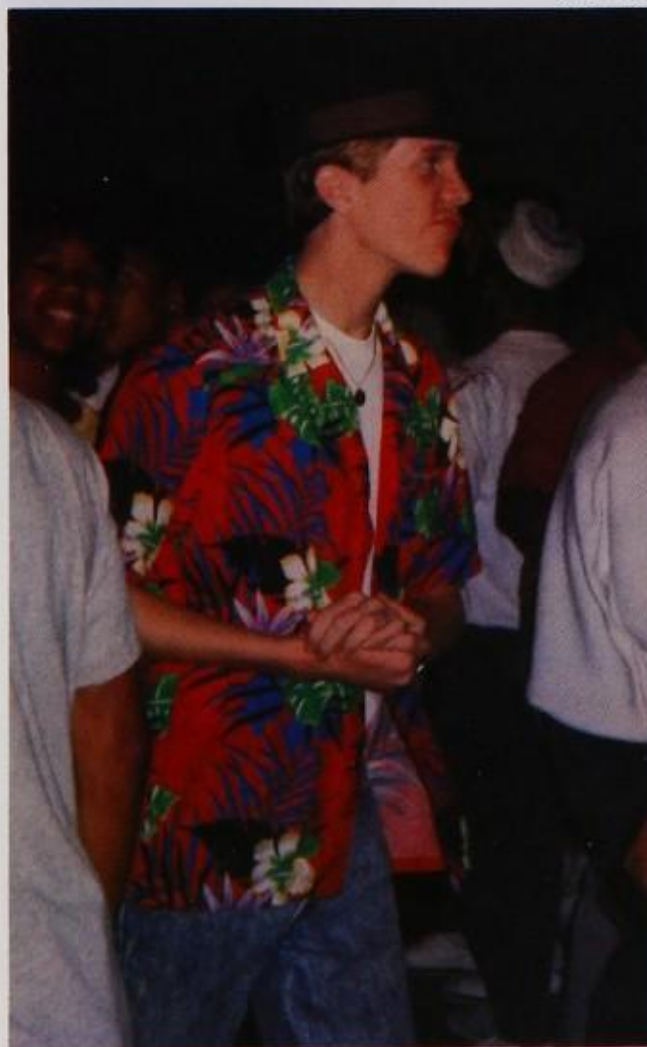

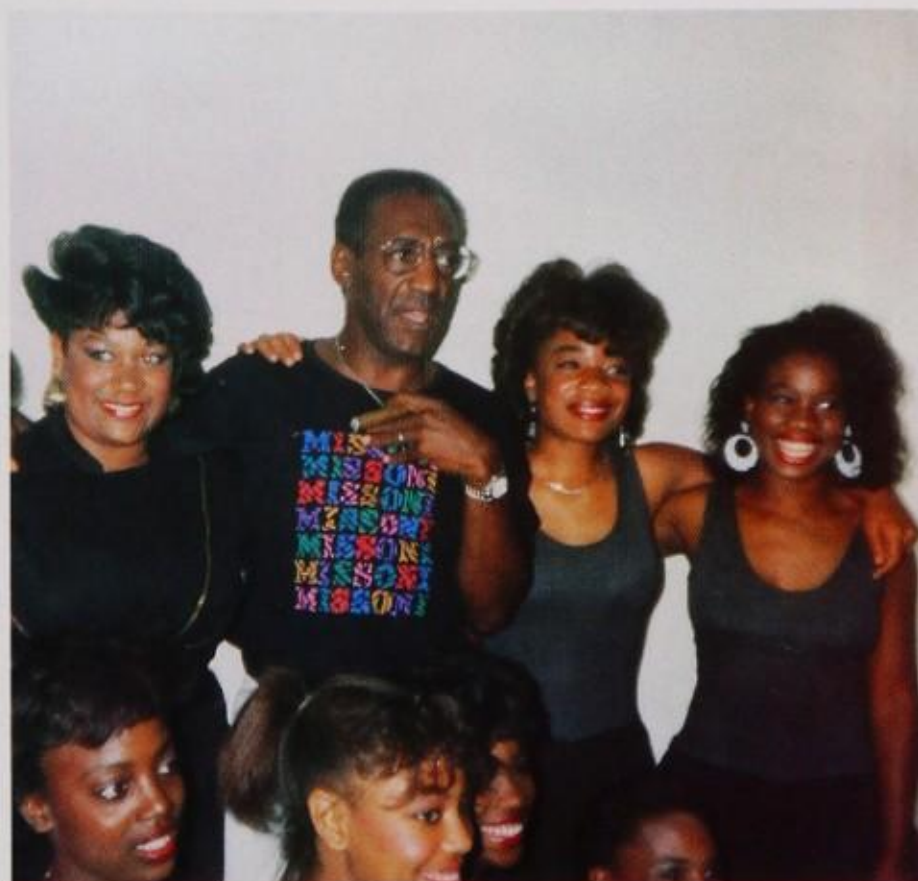

Students who like to do schoolwork together such as Rose Lorenzo, Pascha Moller, and Nikki Schmidt study in the school library.

"Freshman" spends his time off rapping and dancing at the Hawaiian style Homecoming dance.

Many people enjoy just fooling around with friends during their time off. Jennifer Ranshaw, Lea Randle, and Lafawn Carrie know that they have helped one other survive four years of high school.

Sign

The end of summer brought the beginning of school and a new system of registration. The procedure had changed from students standing in endless lines categorized by school subjects, to standing in one line to see their personal counselors. Sounds much easier, doesn't it? Surprisingly, this new idea, which seemed to be the perfect solution, also had its flaws.

People stood in line for as long as three hours to see their counselors. Frustration moved others to storm out of school without a schedule. As the four day process continued, adjustments were made, and the procedure proved to be better than the arena style.

After sign-in came the final count down of days until WHS students and faculty would be reunited. Those days were spent going on last summer pilgrimages to the beach and long visits to the shopping malls. Some returned from vacations and others terminated their summer jobs. While all this physical preparation took place, students also mentally prepared. In doing so, they began to look forward to the new year.

ROP was of the many class choices at registration. It is an offering of occupational classes in which students receive hands on experience at various businesses around the L.A. area.

Many seniors waited for three hours before seeing a counselor. Finally receiving her turn, Karan Meyers sits with counselor, Bea Presley, to work out her schedule. Many seniors were worried due to the importance of obtaining enough credits to graduate.

While some students stood angrily, others found the chaotic situation amusing. The new form of registration will continue to be used and it is hoped, also perfected.

Checking the number of students enrolled in each class so that no class gets too full is an important task for counselor Arthur Eades.

One of the major complaints from seniors about the new registration system was the students' inability to form a line. Instead, masses of people crowd around the counselors in hopes of being "first."

Suiting

Everyone has his or her own unique style at Westchester. People tend to express themselves and their styles through the clothes they wear. Fashion plays a big part in day to day lives of students.

Whether they are preppie, prissy, or just plain, their expressions are all different. It is seldom that one can see two people in the exact same outfit (unless they plan it). Every student proves that clothes do not make the person, the person makes the clothes. Bold statements are made by everyone through their choice of clothing. But, even though the clothes look rich, sophisticated, and chic, they would be just material without the special people wearing them.

Copy by Lea Randle

Sporting the surf style, Brandon Lue Sang, John Kim, Patrick Tennant, Eddie Chan wear shorts in any type of weather.

Serious gentlemen on campus like Rattapong Lopansri, Albert Neal, and Dimitrios Konsta wear sweater and slacks combinations and look both sophisticated and appealing.

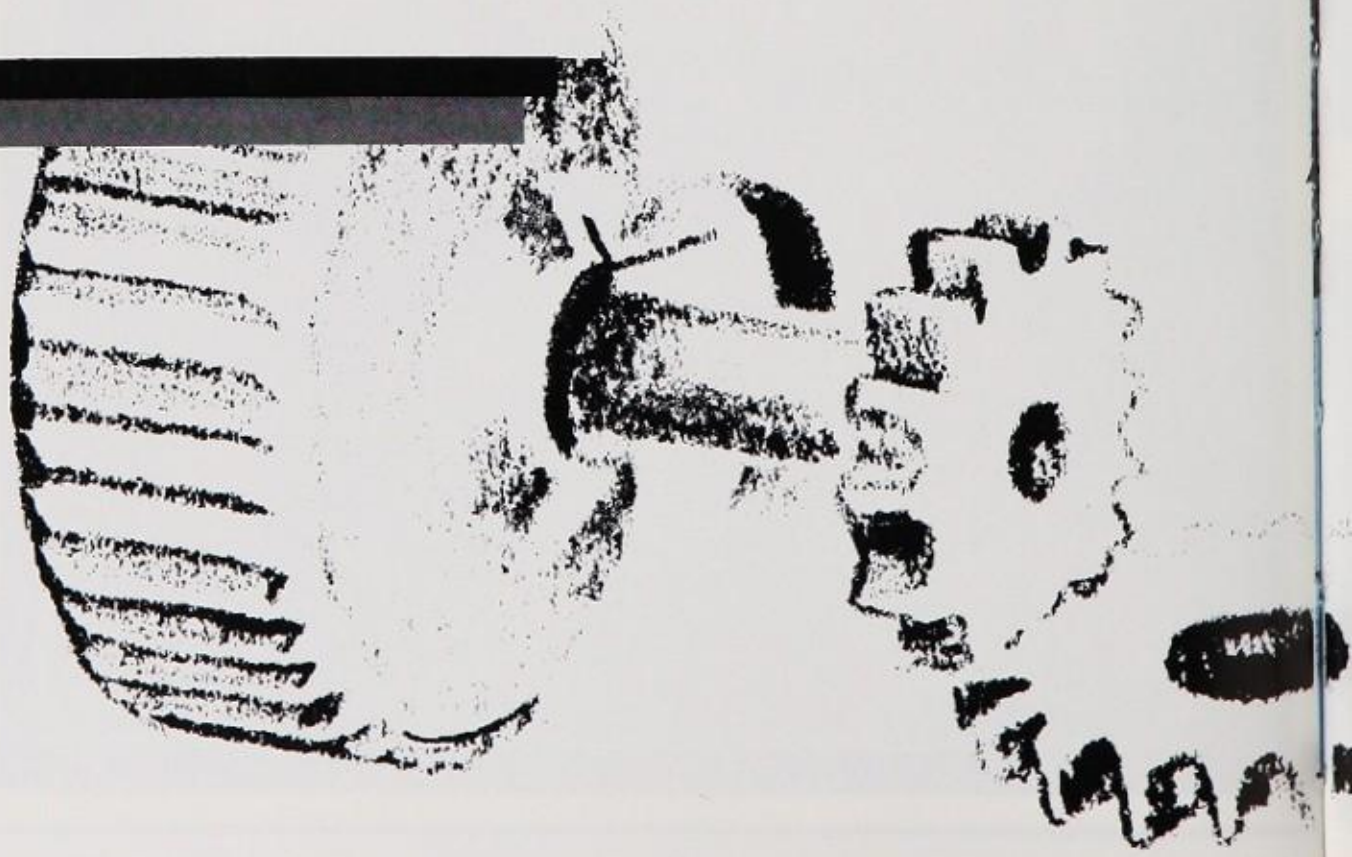

With books at hand and a reassuring smile Daphney Polk sports a casual black skirt and white blouse during a normal day at school.

The suave intellectual look and trendy fashions are the everyday attire of seniors Marlon Singleton and La Fawn Carey.

Danielle Jupiter, Janeen Jackson, and Vida Williams prove that triple the pleasure is also triple the fun when sporting the T-shirt and jeans look.

Short flaggies, Julie Russell, Cheri Jones, Stephanie O'Neil and Shelby McGarry, all dressed in a different fashion, show how Comets choose their friends by what's on the inside not by the fashion they wear.

In High School Four-Ever

Until 1984, students and faculty of Westchester High had never experienced anything quite like the antics of ninth graders. In September 1984, the school received its first true freshman class. These students would change all aspects of life.

The class of '88 started off with a rather bad reputation. According to economics teacher Bill Hines, some teachers and faculty members thought they would be "the worst."

"All the ones I came in contact with, I liked a lot," Hines said. History teacher Pere Scrumbis said, "They're not as bad as their reputation."

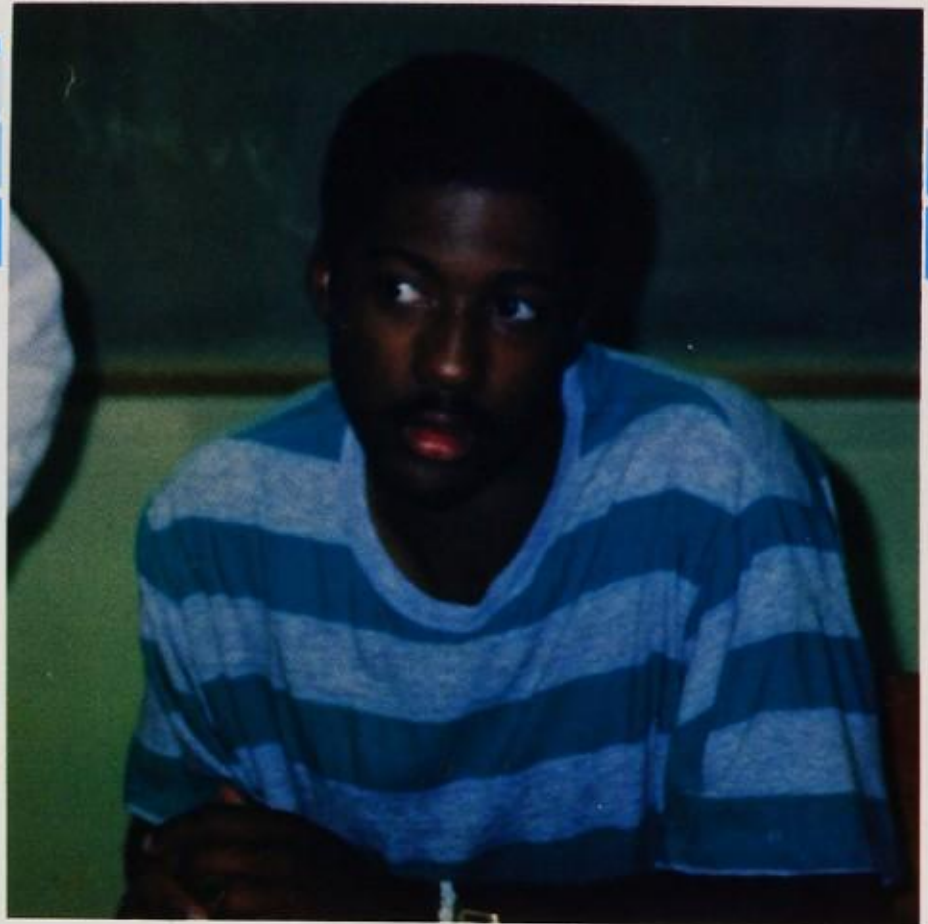

There were mixed feelings about such young students coming into a high school environment. One student, Michelle Nettleton said, "I was scared because of the rumors about Westchester and about being the first ninth graders and not knowing how the upper class would react." Basically, they had a pretty good reception.

These students experienced Westchester's first four year course of study and also several new graduation requirements. All in all, Seniors will be glad to graduate after four long years.

Remember the days when you only had to scream and cry to have Mom and Dad come running to help you?

Everyone knows those days have changed. "Screaming will get you no where" is the comfort Mom and Dad commonly offer now.

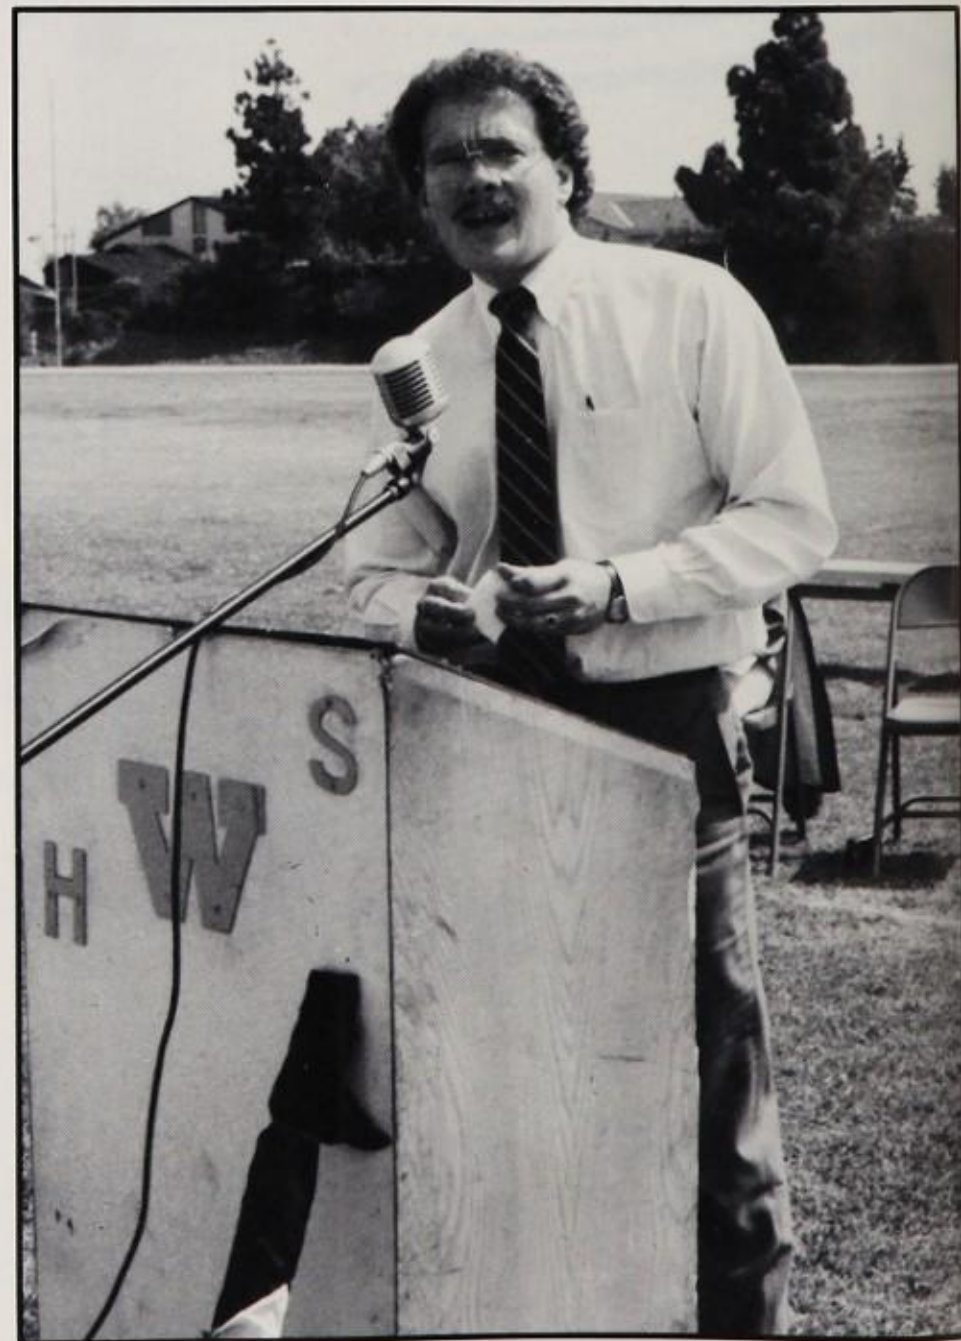

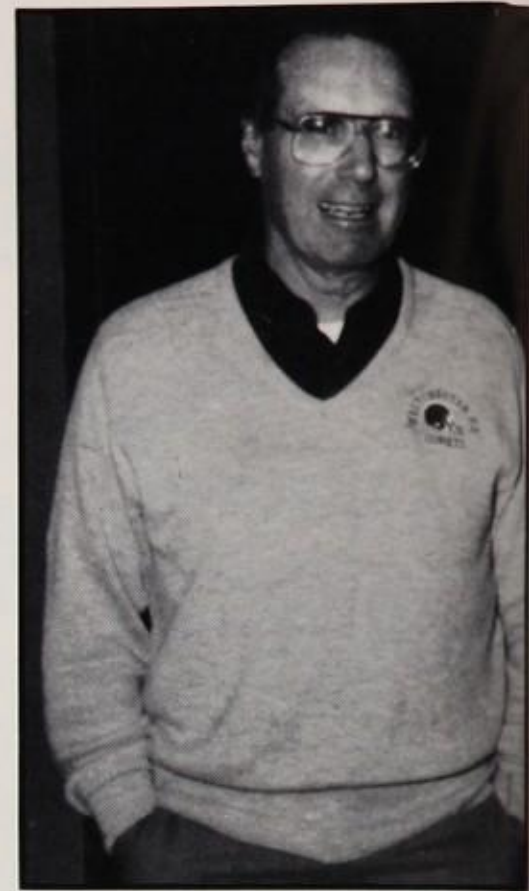

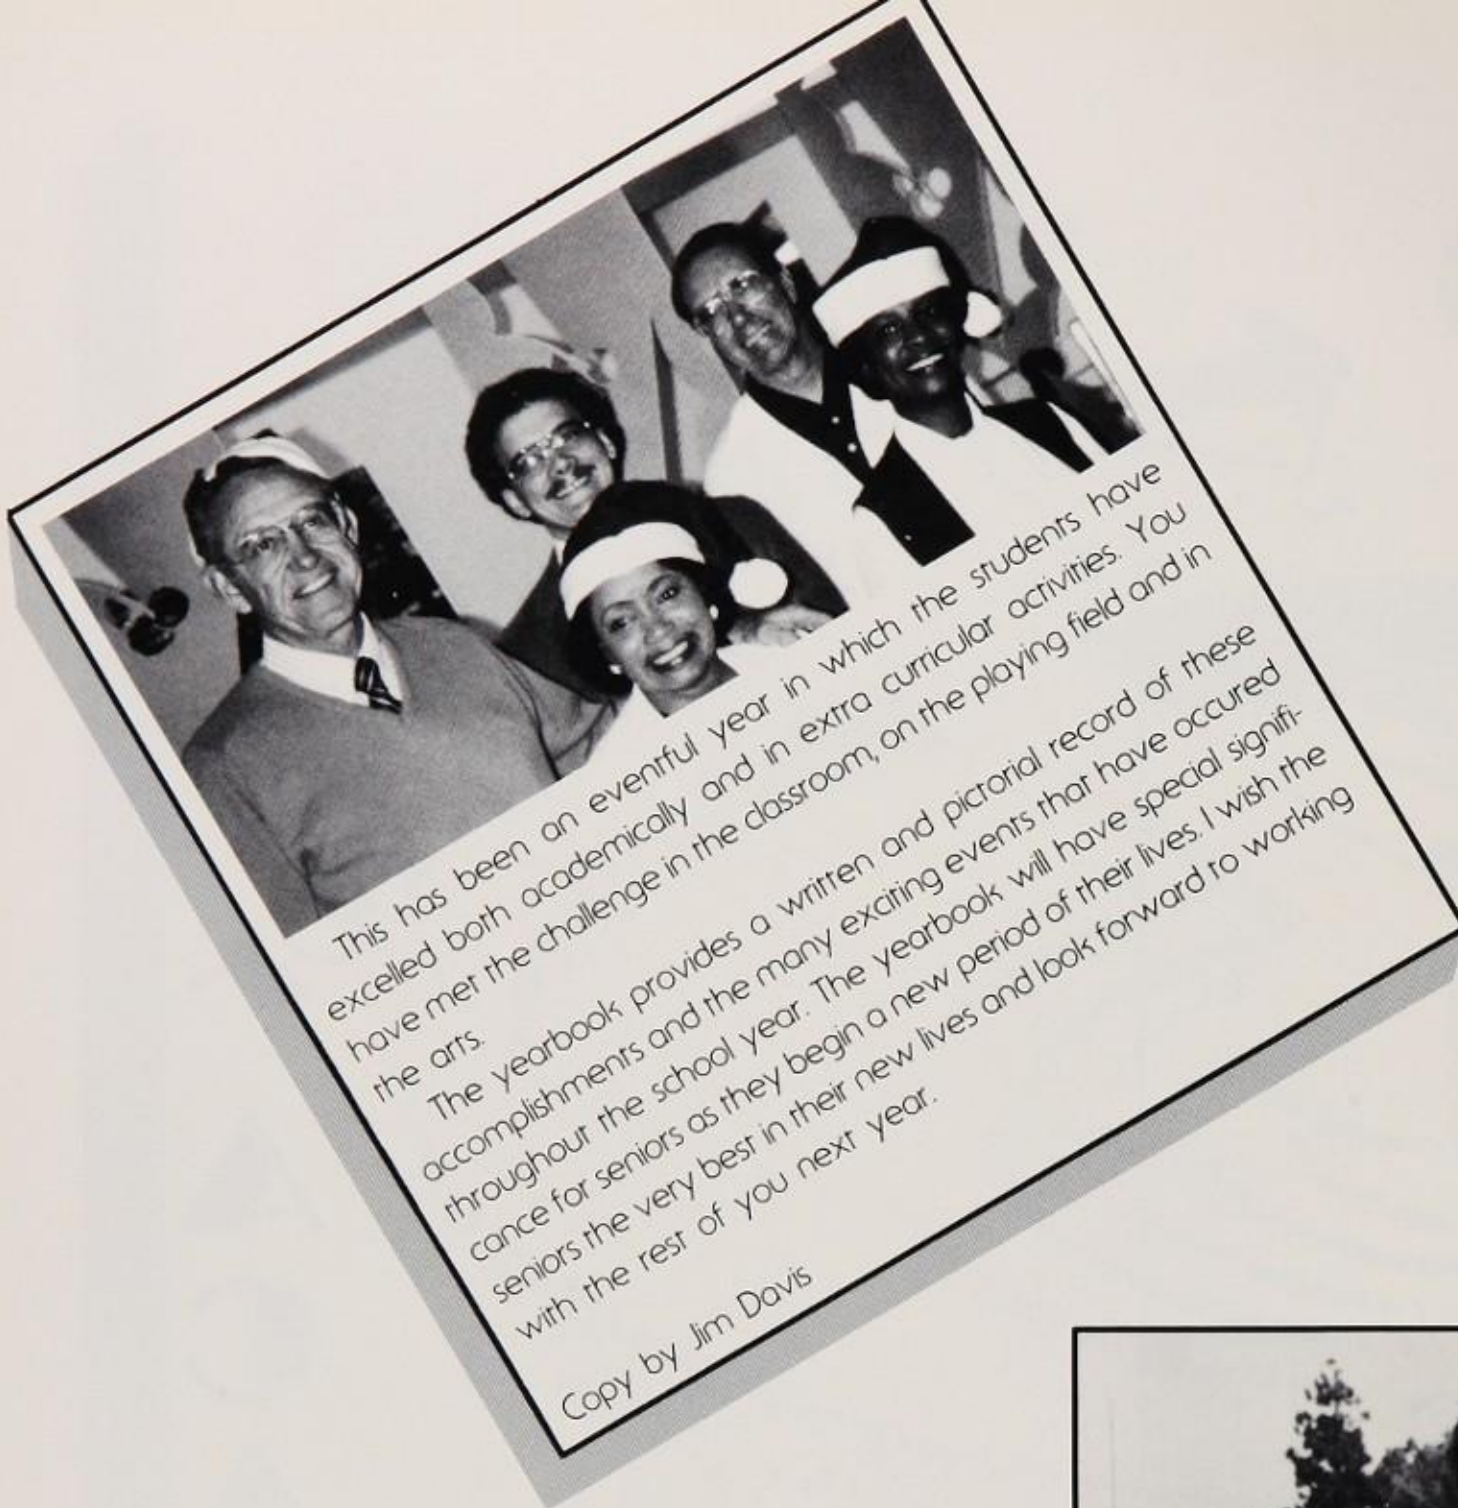

Well even though you're all grown up, Mom and Dad still care. In fact, most parents are about to experience a very great and sad loss. Watching their "babies," through tear filled eyes, pack up their things and move away is hard for any parent to do.

Luckily, baby pictures give parents the opportunity to look back on their children's lives and remember all of the many good and bad times there have been.

Solving the Problem

$2 + 2 = 4$. Well, we've got that down.
 $6 \times 9 = 54$. Even this seems easy.

Use the cylindrical shell method to find the volume of the solid generated by revolving about the x-axis the region bounded by $x = y^3 - y$ and the y-axis between $y=0$ and $y=1$.

Now that is more like it for senior Ernest Chuang. Though most calculus students are seniors, Chuang completed the course as a junior. "He was a junior and he still seemed to wiz right past everyone else in the class," math teacher Richard Werner said.

Aside from a lot of homework, Chuang does not spend much time studying for math. "I usually don't need to study math except the night before a test for about 15-30 minutes," he said.

Over all, Ernest Chuang is proud to be thought of as the best math student of the year.

"I hope to speak it fluently."

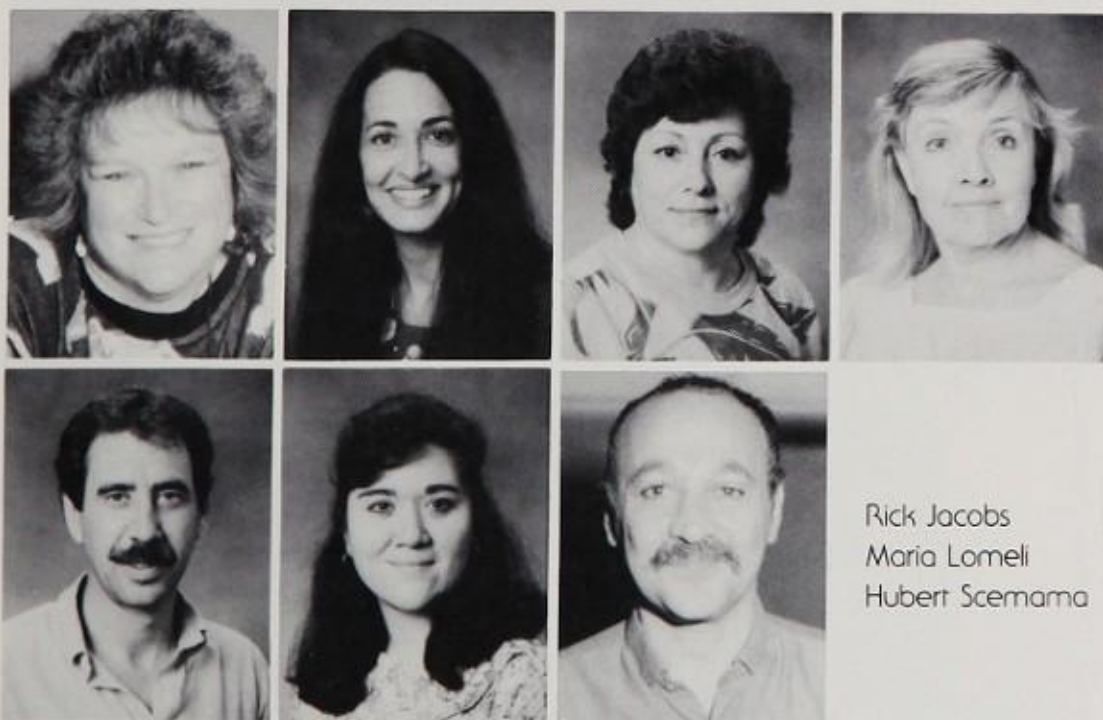

The department in which you heard such sounds as bonjour, buenos dias, aujourd'hui, and avec was the foreign language department. Many students took a foreign language course because they were interested in learning about a new and different culture.

Tara Ingram explained, "I took it simply to learn a second language and hopefully to be able to speak fluently." When asked about the learning atmosphere in her class, she replied, "The teacher is great and the students all work together and help each other."

Aside from Spanish and French, Westchester also reaches English as a foreign, or second language. This class is offered to students who don't speak English in the home.

An essay that Made a difference

With the help of her dedicated teachers, Jene Davis won the Phi Delta Kappa/UCLA Essay contest. She was honored at a banquet where she read her winning essay to administrators from various high schools. Teachers, including Margaret Bower, Ann-Marie Powledge, Joanne Karr, Minnie Crews, and Esther Hugo, devote time to their profession after school whenever needed. Involved teachers like Kir Chavez, Sharon Christopherson, Judy Wong-Nichols, Marv Shulman, and Alfred Rucker like working with young minds in preparation for their futures. Nancy Sands and Peter Johnson introduce students to the fascination found in books that have stood the test of time. These teachers make up the English Department that educates and motivates the minds of tomorrow.

Time for Social studies

In the United States, some students have trouble locating their own country on a map. In Mr. Brierley's fourth period history class, 16% of the students did not know where the U.S. was. 29% didn't know where the Atlantic Ocean was. Because of these upsetting facts, National Geography Week occurred.

The purpose was to focus on the teaching of geography and to make sure each student learned more about geography. One activity that occurred was the balloon launch. Its purpose was to publicize National Geography week and to help students learn about winds and where the balloons would land.

"The only thing I regret is that there wasn't enough participation. At this school, students have a great opportunity to learn. It would be nice if they could take advantage of it," Mr. Brierley said.

Scientific Talk

The science curriculum focuses on giving students a broad background in the biological and physical sciences. Prior to graduation, seniors are required to take a year of biological science and a year of physical science. To satisfy college requirements, many students take three years of science, including chemistry and physics.

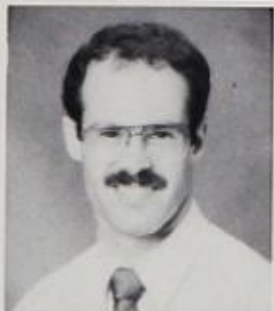

The biological sciences give students a background in living organisms and how they function. Biology students study Darwinism, predator-prey theory, and basic functional systems such as the reproductive, circulatory and nervous systems. Students often perform dissections to learn more about the composition and inner workings of organisms. Sophomores have the option of taking marine or regular biology.

The physical sciences inform students about matter and how it interacts with the environment. Physical science students experiment with chemicals and organic compounds in order to measure and understand their physical surroundings. "Labs are really interesting," Lisa Malone said. "Putting on goggles and experimenting with test tubes and formulas makes you feel like a real scientist."

The Academic Decathlon was a prestigious competition of fifty-three schools attempting to master ten different subjects. Multiple-choice tests in math, science, social science, economics, fine arts and language and literature were given. The four other areas were an interview, an essay, a speech, and the Superquiz.

A silver medal was won by John Davidson in the essay category. Honorable mentions were earned by James Kao, Chris Richard and John Davidson. Other team members ranked in the top fifteen of their grade category. Overall, the Comer team ranked twenty-fourth.

"Being a peer counselor allows me to have one to one contact with the student body."

As college application deadlines drew closer, the college office became important to many seniors. In the college office, seniors learned more about the universities and scholarships they were interested in by reading bulletins, viewbooks, and seeking counseling from Mrs. Moroney and her ten peer counselors.

Eryka Mathews, a peer counselor said, "The college office is a world of its own. You can learn about college and always find someone to help you."

Also in A1, Mr. Garnes, R.O.P. and athletic co-ordinator, and Mr. Spinosa have their offices. In addition to teaching, Mr. Spinosa is in charge of work experience, in which students receive school credits for their part time jobs. In R.O.P., the Regional Occupational Program, students receive first hand experience in the areas of their career interests.

TALENT!

While some students enjoy displaying their talent by acting and portraying characters, others show their skills by singing in harmony or practicing their instruments. Many advantages are given to students who take part in choir, drama, and band. As Eric Reed explains, "Being in choir gives me a boost of self-esteem and allows me the chance to express myself. It helps you become more open to others and gives you experience in performing on stage."

Opportunities that help a person express himself are also present in drama. "In drama, the cast becomes a family. At first, the cast members appear to be so diverse but as the production continues everyone realizes that we're all alike in some way or another and we all learn to communicate better," says Pascha Moller, an avid and experienced performer. Even though hours and hours of rehearsal time are spent during and after school, many members of drama, choir and band feel that it is definitely worth it.

In preparation for a conservative and organized home students may take Home Economics courses. Careers with Children is an elective only available to juniors and seniors. This class enables students to become familiar with fundamentals of child rearing and nourishment.

Foods and Nutrition is an elective open to students of all grades. Students learn about cooking and nutrition.

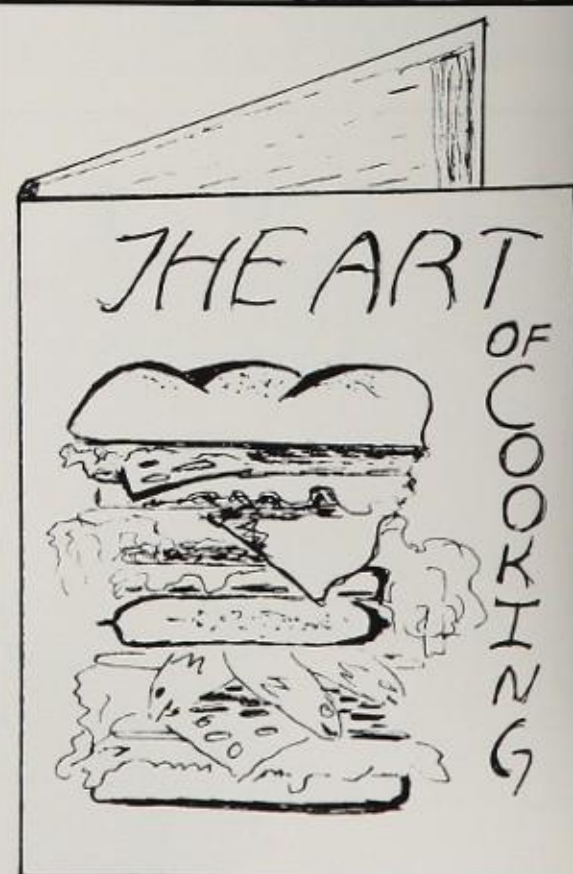

"For students interested in having fun cooking and learning about how to cook foods from many regions of the world, this class could be a good experience," says Alvin Trotter.

The library is a place students come to study and to take advantage of all the types of books it has to offer. Its atmosphere is welcoming and Mrs. Schwarz, the librarian, is always there to help.

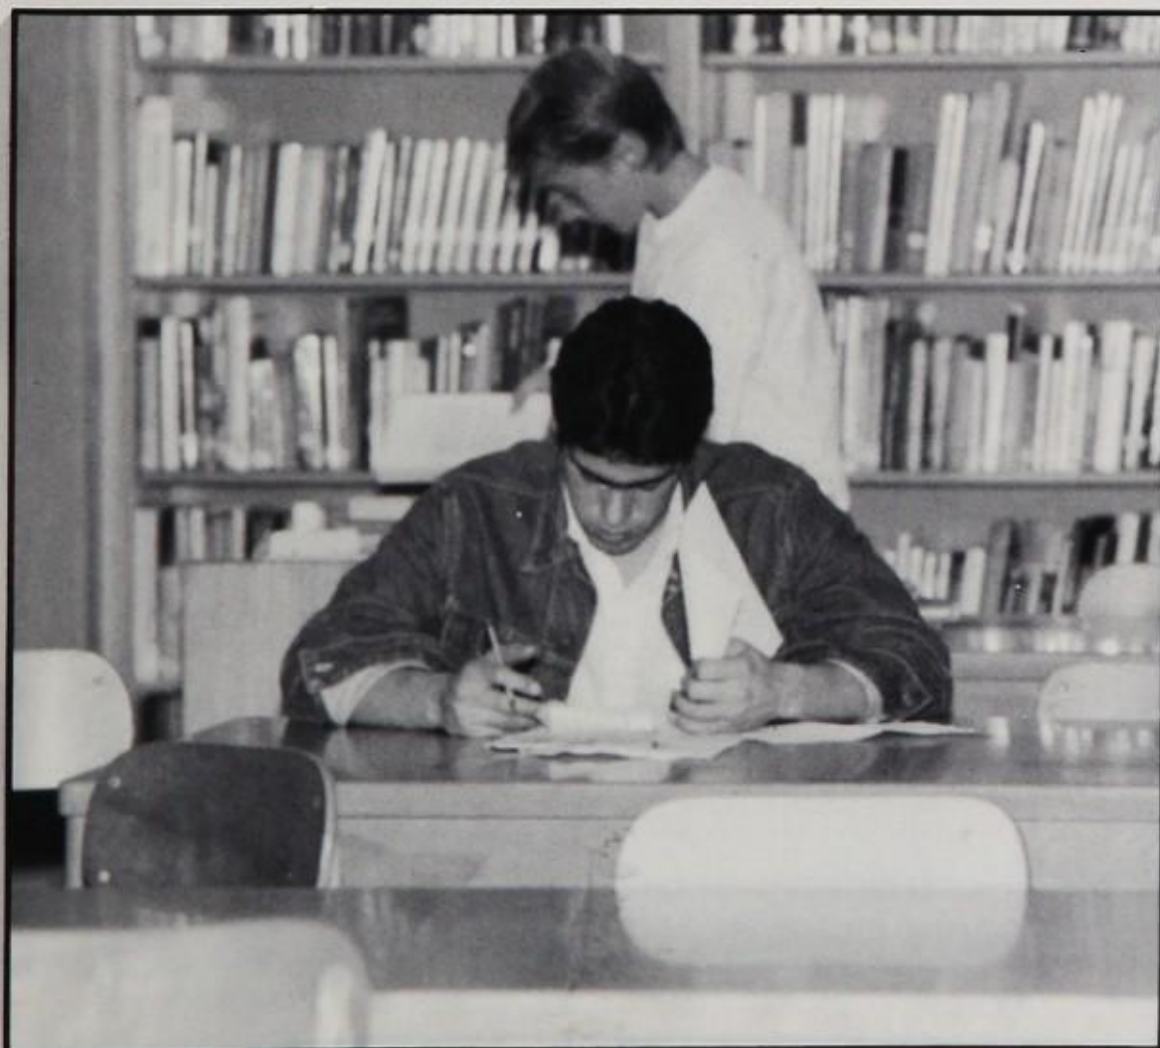

The computer class educates students in the basic skills of operating a communication device. These skills will be useful in becoming productive and successful in the working field.

"I have the class because it's challenging and will enrich my life," said Junior Regina Mattingly.

Though complicated at times, computer programming and its related fields are among the largest occupations in the world today.

When a person learns how to type, almost every door to success is open for him. Typing is an essential skill that helps when writing term papers, filling out college applications, or preparing resumes.

It's time For JROTC...

"JROTC is whatever you make it," said Cadet Corporal Lisa Johnson. JROTC is a class formulated to teach students about leadership, responsibility, and discipline. "This class doesn't really teach us about war. The only things we learn about the Service are how to read maps and how to tell military time," Cadet Corporal Johnson added.

Health is a class designed to discuss first-aid, sex education, and drug education, among other things. Driver's Education is a class designed to teach students about the road, safety, and highway laws. After taking this course, students are allowed to take Driver's Training. Along with Driver's Education, students take a class called Educational Career Planning. This class helps students learn about further schooling and careers.

Time out For art

Outstanding teachers turned out excellent art students who were capable of producing noteworthy art. Each year, students participate in several art competitions, including the Bill of Rights Poster Contest. Nicky Askari, a junior, was one of the top three finalists eligible for the $1,000 prize.

Nicky said, "It wasn't something I planned to enter to win. I was motivated by the subject and got support from Mr. Uskovich, so I did my best!"

Another form of art is technical art, which includes the various shop classes. According to Russell Howells, the skills that one learns in wood shop, such as drafting and the use of tools, can be valuable in everyday life.

Wood shop is one example of how student's horizons can be broadened by the use of their hands.

The Special Education class, aided by Mrs. Coffee, works with students who have learning disabilities. Each student is given special attention for each of his problems and is able to work at his own pace.

Adult school is offered during and after school for students who need classes or credits. Students study independently to complete their "class contracts." This enables students to complete their classes faster.

TRUE COMETS - Varsity volleyball players
Chris Benefiel and Dan Belson have fun in the

A WINNING ATTITUDE

by Joyce Bastoli

Chris Benefiel, a junior, was on the Volleyball team. He commented, "Volleyball is the number one sport to me." Although he feels that the team is strong, Chris also felt attitudes needed to change. "I feel the players need to play as a team rather than individuals," explained Chris. While on the court playing in a tournament, he felt amped, a feeling of intense energy. "I get very disappointed and embarrassed when I mess up," he said.

Not only did Chris do well on the court, but he produced beautiful art. He was very involved in art and hopes to attend a summer program in arts at Loyola Marymount.

IT'S TIME TO CLEAN UP

by Danielle Benson

Straws, napkins, cartons, cans, burrito wrappers, gum, half-eaten apples, and chicken bones were some of the many items one could find on the ground at Westchester. Haven't you often wondered why there is so much trash around school? Do you even care? Several people were asked how they felt about attending school at a garbage dump.

"I hate trash, it's always messing up the campus. People should respect their campus." -Roslynn Anderson

"The trash does effect the appearance of the campus, but I really don't notice it. It's not like the trash is covering the campus like snow, but I do feel people should take the time to put their mess in the trashcan."

-Kelli Kriwanek

"Trash around school is not as bad as it used to be. Yes, we still have trash on campus and in some places it does look bad, but it looks better than it did last year." -anonymous

MARCHING TO A DIFFERENT BEAT

by Danielle Benard

All-City Band marches in the Rose Parade every year. For the past two years, junior Tracie Okada has joined them.

All-City consists of band members from the 53 high schools all over Los Angeles. The band incorporates brass and percussion as well as tall flags and shields. All-City performs at other events besides the Rose Parade, such as Rams and Raiders football games and Disneyland. Two years ago they performed at a centennial celebration for their sponsor, Coca-Cola.

Two other members of the WHS band participated in All-City, senior Elizabeth Gant and freshman Tom Jaros. "Elizabeth took me down there (to a band meeting) and I got really interested," Tracie explained.

Learning the trumpet just to play in the band, Tracie has found it to be a lot of work but fun at the same time. "It's different than playing in our school band," she said. "You learn the dynamics of marching and performing with about 300 people."

But the training is the hardest part. The band practices on Saturdays throughout November and into early December until Christmas vacation, when they practice every day (except Christmas, of course). The practice in November is devoted to mastering the music. But in December, the real work begins. The band marches through the parking lot of Dodger Stadium to improve their endurance for the Rose Parade.

Tracie describes All-City band as an unforgettable experience.

DIVERSE ATTIRE

by Danielle Benson

One of the many questions that has raged across campus over the years has been why in the world do the Gents dress like retired golfers?

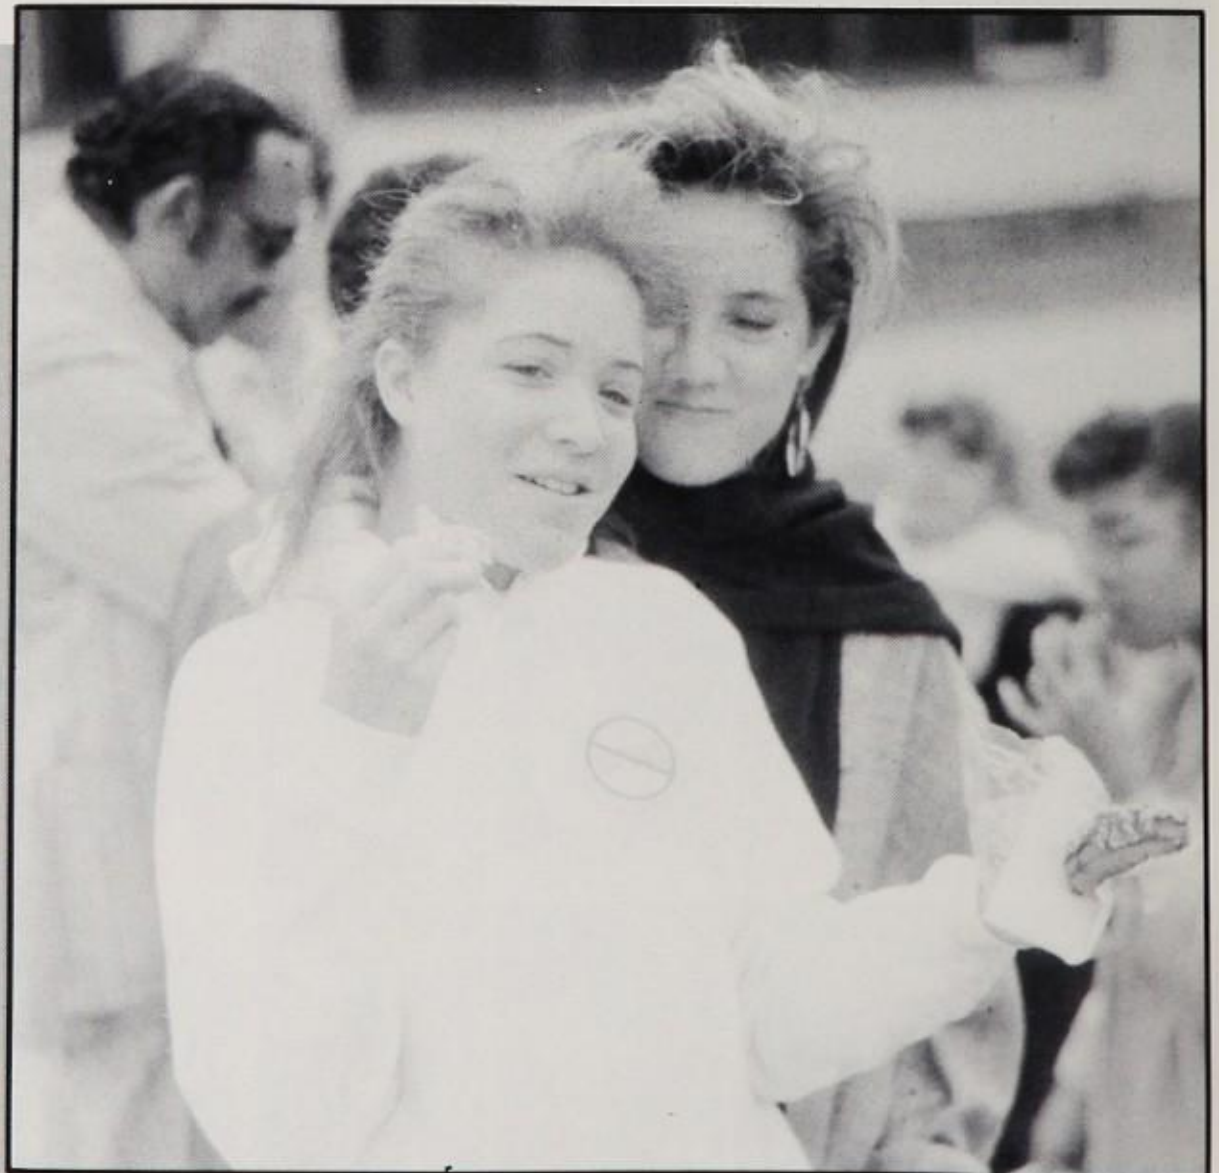

"They probably think that the way they're dressing is cool and that it attracts the young ladies, but we all know that that is not the case." -anonymous

"The Gents dress like that to show that they are different from everybody else and don't follow the normal trends and fashions." -Joaquina Goodson

"They probably dress like retired golfers because they don't want anyone to imitate them and who would want to imitate them as long as they're dressing the way they do?"

-Keisha Willis

"Maybe they dress that way because retired golfers have lots of money and that's as close as they're ever going to get." -anonymous

A TIME FOR SUPPORT

by Tracie Crothers

Unlike football and basketball, girls' tennis is a sport which doesn't get much support from the student body. You don't hear too many people asking for their rankings.

"Even though not many people are interested in girls' tennis, we are a part of the student body and represent our school too," team member Angelique Wilroy said.

Angelique was a junior and has been on the team for three years. "We have good skills but our dedication and concentration could be improved. At times we get lazy." But she quickly added, "Mrs. Carlson, our coach, is spirited and enthusiastic. She pushes us at those lazy times."

This year, the girls' tennis team did not do as well as they usually do. "But with more support, we would have had a better attitude. Next year I hope we'll rank number one, with the students cheering us on all the way," said Angelique.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

by Danielle Benson

Remember the time you were walking in front of that guy you had the tremendous crush on and then fell in front of him? Did you feel totally humiliated? Well, you're not alone. Several underclassmen were asked about their most embarrassing moments. Here are their responses, but none of them were willing to be identified.

"I was walking with a guy I really liked and I fell over a tree stump."

"These guys threw me in a trash can and when I got up my pants came off."

"My big sister tied me to a tree and left me there."

"I was walking through the Del Amo Mall and my shorts fell down."

"I slipped and fell in front of everybody at Winter Wonderland."

IT'S TIME TO SOBER UP

by Danielle Benson

Every year, drunk drivers kill thousands of people who never should have died. During the holidays many people never make it home. Alcoholism is a illness, but does that make the person who drives drunk a victim of a disease? Many people say no, but there is a continued leniency toward drunk drivers.

In one country, if a person is caught driving drunk, he or she is walked 20 miles from town into the desert, a 30 pound weight is attached to each leg, and he or she has to walk back to town. If he or she dies on the way back that's just too bad. This may be a bit extreme but it's definitely effective.

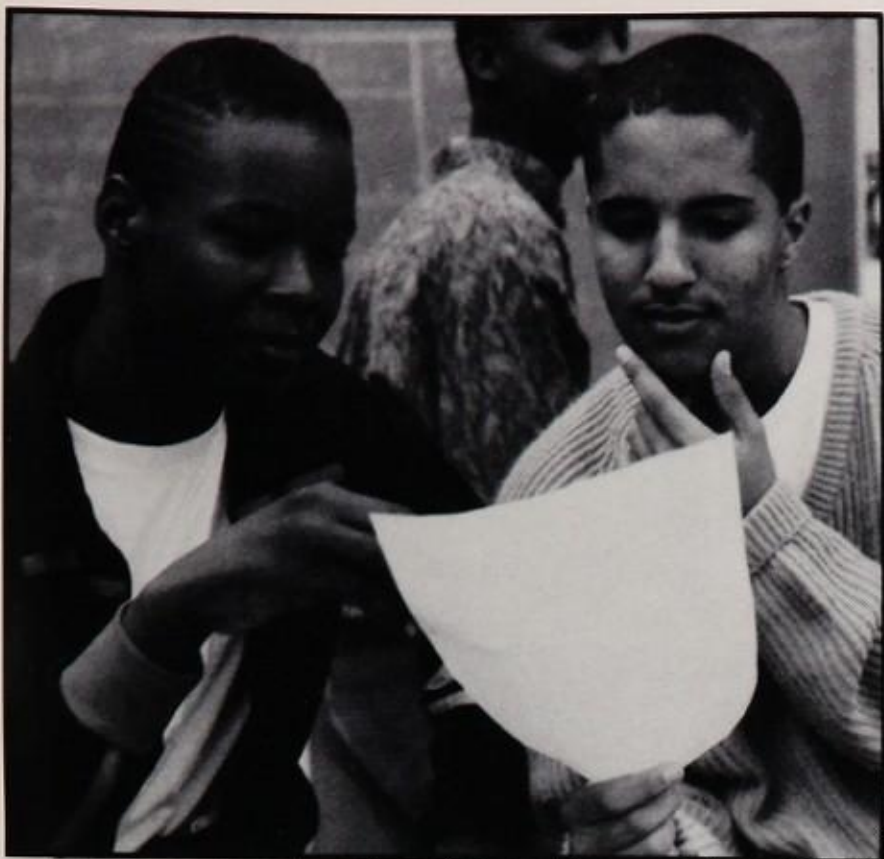

"I feel that drunk drivers should be put in jail for the wrongs they do." -Calvin Loving

"Only back seat drivers should drive drunk." -Anonymous

"I think Westchester has really improved since we have better student body officers." -Soo Oh

CHANCE ENCOUNTERS

by Danielle Benson

Only one place has admitted more drug addicts than any drug rehabilitation center, the graveyard. Drugs - once you get hooked you can't live with them and you can't live without them. If the drugs themselves don't kill you the withdrawal symptoms just might. The best thing you can do is not get started on drugs at all.

A few people try a certain drug once or twice just to see what it's like. Some experts feel that if people do that, they should read up on the damage the drug can do to their system.

"Anyone who uses drugs is irresponsible. They should respect the harm that can be caused by using drugs." -Caromy Comins

"People who use drugs are losers, they just throw their lives away." -Anonymous

"People who use drugs are inconsiderate of others and I feel that they just shouldn't use drugs." -Eric Udagawa

A LIFETIME AFFAIR

by Tracie Crothers

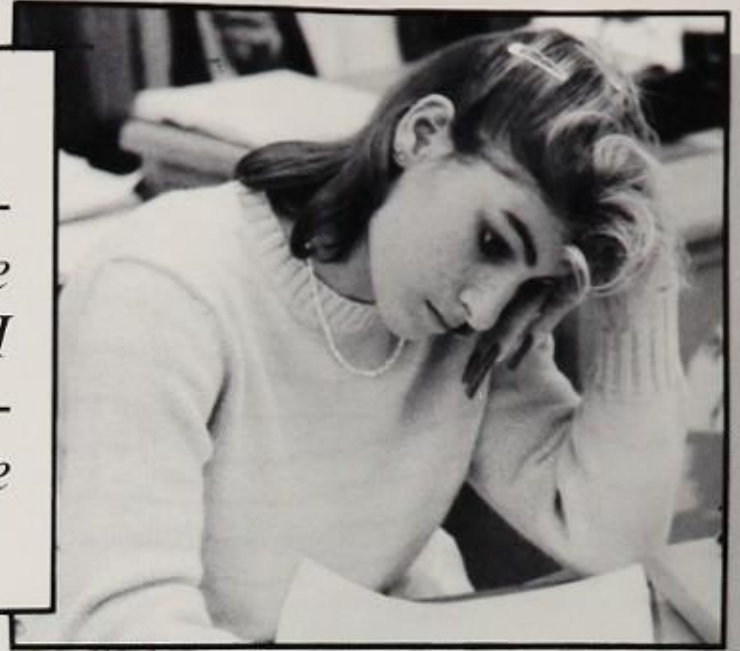

Siblings - once you have them, they are with you for life. Most siblings are constantly nagging each other. There may be good memories, but the bad ones always seem to be more prominent. Remember all the terrible things you have done to your brother or sister? You are not alone. It's common practice for siblings to do terrible things to each other. Read and see what these people had to say ...

"I locked my brother in the trunk of my dad's car and drove about two miles." - Danielle Benson

"I pushed my sister down a hill and she broke her arm." -Anonymous

GO HOME!!!

by Danielle Benson

You are over at a friend's house with many other people. Everyone's having a great time and you want the night to last forever. A quick glance at the clock lets you know that this can never be because it's one o'clock and you have to be home by one-thirty. Unfortunately none of your friends have a curfew so the party goes on without you.

Sound familiar? Many people have a curfew, but surprisingly, most of them don't seem to mind. These people believe that whatever can be done after curfew can be done before curfew. Others feel that as long as the curfew is reasonable and it doesn't conflict with the plans for the evening, they don't mind coming in at a reasonable time.

Maybe these people are joking because it seems to me I always hear complaints when it is time to come in early.

I REALLY HATE IT WHEN . . .

by Tracie Crothers

Don't you hate it when people get white crusts in the corner of their lips when talking too much? Or what about when people walk around with food caught in their braces? Everyone has something that irritates them. We have surveyed some people and they told us what irritates them.

"... I walk into Westchester High School." -Dan Wilson

"... Fat people try to wear sexy clothing." -Danielle Benson

"... People always correct you." -Roslynn Anderson

"... I wake up early, take a shower, go to school and find out it's Saturday." -Mike Mulligan

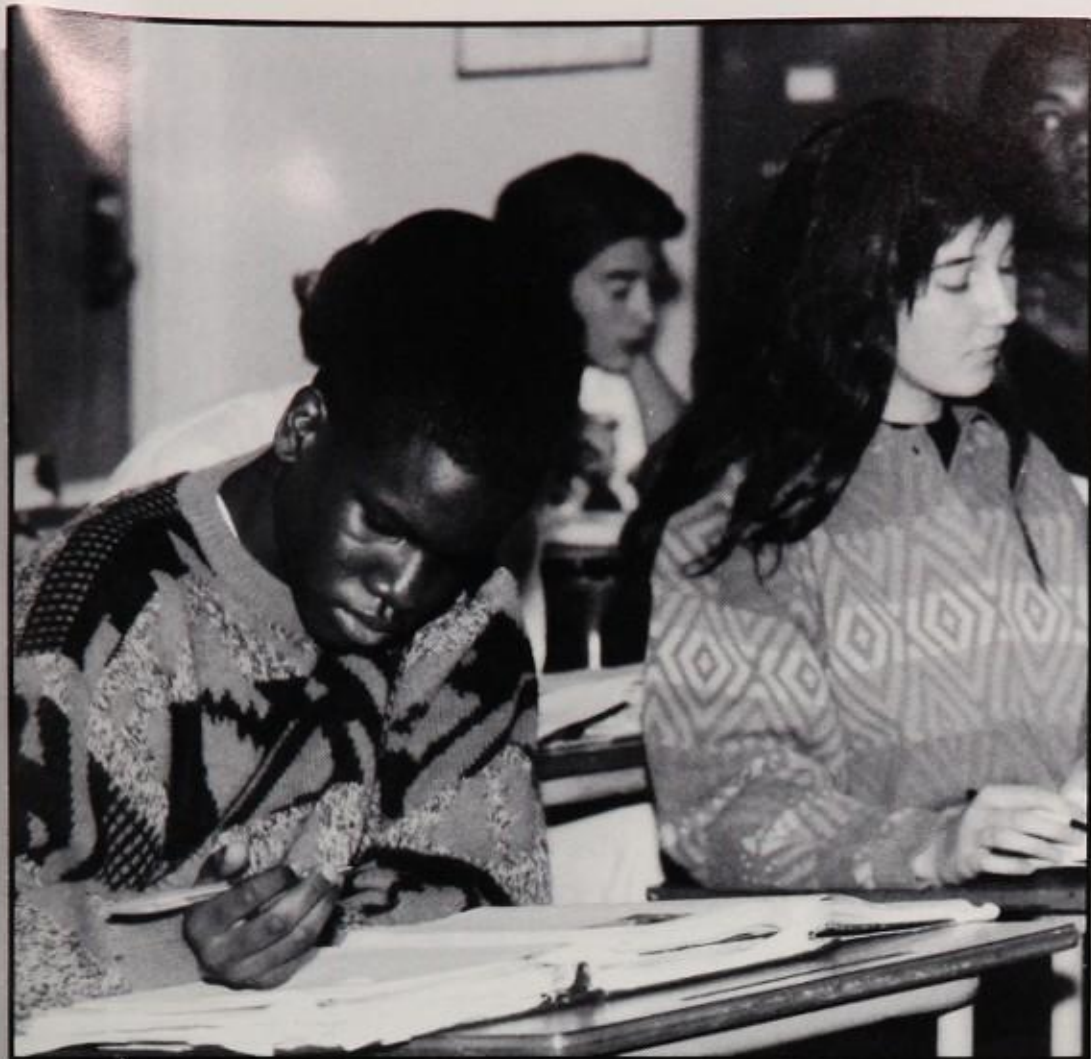

"... I'm approached at nutrition by communistic hindus wearing green and mauve sheers, speaking about the reasons for Marie Osmond's divorce and the drastic effect it had on society. Want some more? ... When I have to put on sunglasses first period because the lights are too bright." -Dan Belson

A DIFFERENCE OF OPINION

by Jennifer Barron

Coming to school five days a week for 40 weeks can be a real pain. It can make a person hate the thought of school, or even worse, it can make a person hate the thought of the school he attends.

But here at WHS, we have a different view of the school. Most of us actually LIKE WHS! We like ...

- Theresa Smartt: the teachers
- LaTiesha Pruitt: lunchtime
- Toni Trimble: biology class - Mr. Landre is the highlight of my day.
- Marie Pascual: the people
- Julie Andelin: the junior and senior lawn because they're great places to unwind.
- and Chris Dixon with the most original answer of all: 3:05

"NOTHING LIKE HEAVY METAL"

by Joyce Bastoli

At WHS, each of us has many individual characteristics that makes every one of us unique. When it comes to music we all have our likes and dislikes.

Mike Pruette, a freshman, is enjoying his first year in high school. This year Mike has made many friends. When asked what kind of music he enjoys, he replied heavy metal. "Being a heavy metaler, I guess my friends are heavy metal too. Heavy metal is my motive for life," Mike said. His favorite groups are Slayer, Pink Floyd, Celtic Frost, Dark Angels, and Helloween.

When Mike is not around his friends, he holds a job at an Italian restaurant, the Villa Inn. He said, "It's fun working at Villa Inn because the people are nice and I get to listen to KNAC." When asked about his future plans, this freshman revealed, "I would like to form a Heavy Metal Band and become the lead guitarist."

WHAT IS DIFFERENT ABOUT FRESHMEN

by Jennifer Barron

"Freshmen," "fish," and "scrubs," are only a few names given to the ninth graders at WHS. Many freshmen fear the first day of high school because they feel that they may be thrown in a trash can, or they might have to count bricks with their noses. Here are some good and bad thoughts about freshmen . . .

"I think they're just like any other normal high school student." -Marsha Smith

"Too young." -Anna Rubin

"I think they're great. We, older people should always remember that we were once freshmen too." -LaTiesha Pruitt

"I don't like them being here that much. I don't think they're mature enough." -Laura Ramsey

A "Magical"

Faster than a clumsy L.A. Clipper, more powerful than a Chicago Bull, able to leap over a Boston Celtic in a single bound, on the WHS stage was Ervin "Magic" Johnson. Magic Johnson, of the World Champion Lakers, came to visit and talk to students. He stressed the importance of staying in school and maintaining good grades. After the assembly, he posed for pictures, signed autographs and talked to both girls' and boys' basketball teams.

"He was very down to earth and very inspirational," said Lady Comer Tammy Story

Mayor Tom Bradley took time to speak to students on September 21st. He talked about the Constitution and racial discrimination and urged students to take advantage of all the opportunities available to young people.

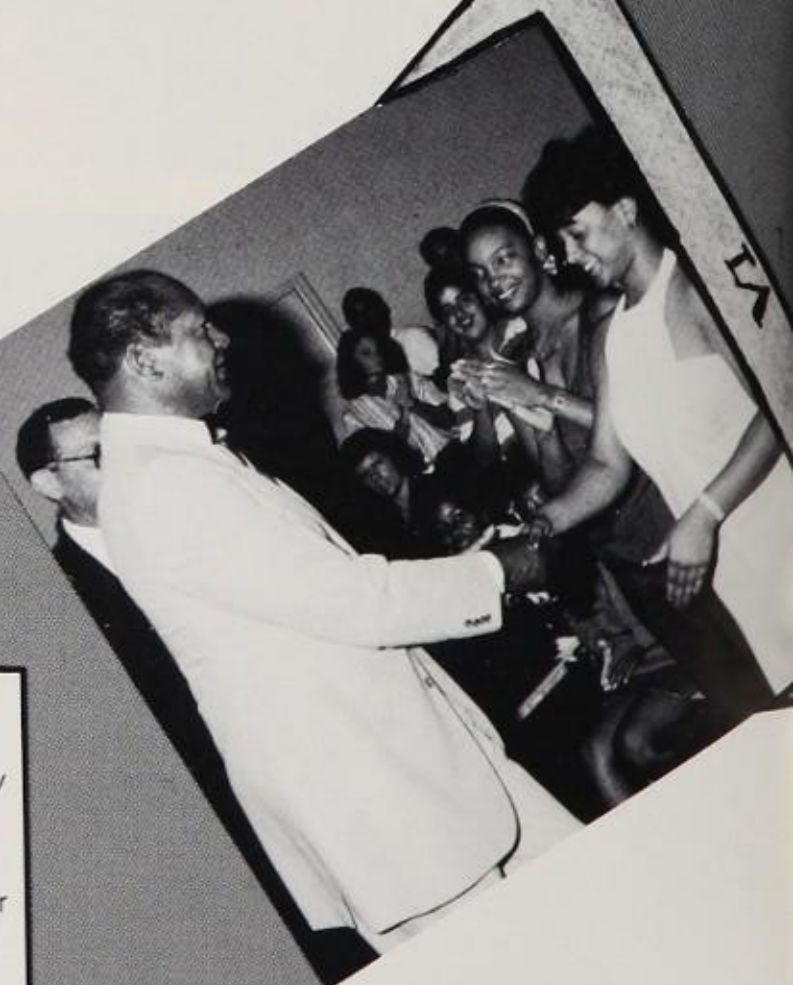

After his speech, the mayor briefly responded to questions ranging from the Bork nomination to the Supreme Court to his views on minimum wages.

"I was crossing my fingers in the hope that they (the students) would not ask silly questions, math teacher Susan Cohen said. "I was relieved when the questions were intelligent."

Following the questions, Bradley visited classes where he spoke to students. "He made a good presentation, talking about voting and the participation in the democratic process," Al Brozman said.

Once he was through, the imposing yet personable mayor moved on to his next appointment ten minutes later at Venice High.

Approximately every other week, students were able to get involved in spirit boosting activities. Led by Student Body Vice President Tara Ingram, the senior, junior, sophomore, and freshman classes competed against each other for class points. This was called the "WHS Class Competition."

"I feel that Class Competition helps toward the spirit on Westchester's campus . . . Since everyone is proud of their classes, they are willing to compete against the opposing classes," said spirited Tara Ingram.

Class Competition consisted of events such as the Orange Pass, Ice Cream Feed, and Musical Chairs.

Harvey was the fall drama production presented by Ms. Rogers and thirteen Comet actors. It is the story of a man whose family tries to commit him to an asylum because he believes in an imaginary rabbit. To the family's surprise, Harvey does indeed exist. "The 'magic' of Harvey is that the audience wants to believe!" said Ms. Rogers.

Consistently superb performances by Pascha Moller and Joseph Szabo, as well as the excellent supporting cast, made "Harvey" a real treat.

"It was my first play. It was a great experience and I'm thankful for it," Alexis Johnson stated.

French Revolution

PIMPERNEL was a swashbuckling musical adventure based upon Baroness Orczy's classic novel THE SCARLET PIMPERNEL. The year was 1793 after the French Revolution during a period known as "The Reign of Terror." The musical followed the adventures of the Pimpernel, as he cunningly saved French aristocrats, his wife and even himself from the French government. The excitement continued, and at the end of the night, the entire cast and the audience finally discovered who the Pimpernel really was.

Time to dance . . .

In June the music department presented the Broadway masterpiece A CHORUS LINE. The characters portrayed were based upon the lives and experiences of Broadway dancers. The show was produced under the direction of Doug Griffin and Sam Uskovich and was perhaps the most challenging and successful show performed at WHS.

Winter Wonderland

The Comers went to Winter Wonderland in style. Unlike some years, dinner was served at the dance and the location was excellent.

The dance was held at the Sheraton La Reina Hotel near LAX. Students began showing up shortly before 8:00 and by 8:15 the occasion was alive.

After dinner was completed, students and their dates danced until midnight to a good selection of music.

"It would have been better if they had started it earlier and if there had been a bigger dance floor," said senior Bryon Smith. Most students however were pleased with the dance.

"It was a lot better than last year's," said senior Gail Gabby.

Talent time!!!

In September, the talent show was no more than a dream. In November, it became a serious proposal that was carefully presented to the administration. December was the time to prepare, and friends were called upon to organize. The date of March 11th arrived sooner than expected, and changes were made up to an hour before the show. The show was a success as well as a dream come true.

Pep rallies

Spirit groups such as the Drill Team, Cheerleaders, and Tall Flags showed their school pride through their performances every Friday at lunch. The crowds formed in the Boys' Gym or on the Senior Lawn to show the football and basketball teams that their whole school was behind them, rooting them on to victory. These events were popular by Freshmen, Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors, as well as by faculty members. Pep Rallies were good for the school, the teams, and the students.

Homecoming dance

The evening after the Homecoming game and parade, a semi-formal Homecoming Dance was held in the social hall. The theme of the dance, like the parade, was that of a Hawaiian Luau. The theme was played out to the fullest. Comers danced to the music of a live disc jockey and quenched their thirst with Hawaiian Punch. The Homecoming court made an appearance. King Thomas Reese and Queen Tara Ingram danced under the spotlight. Overall, the Westchester Homecoming Dance was a great success and enjoyed by all who went.

Lunch time

At lunch time, WHS often offered something different for the students to do. Some of the most memorable were the Halloween costume contest, the ice cream eating contest and the pizza eating contest.

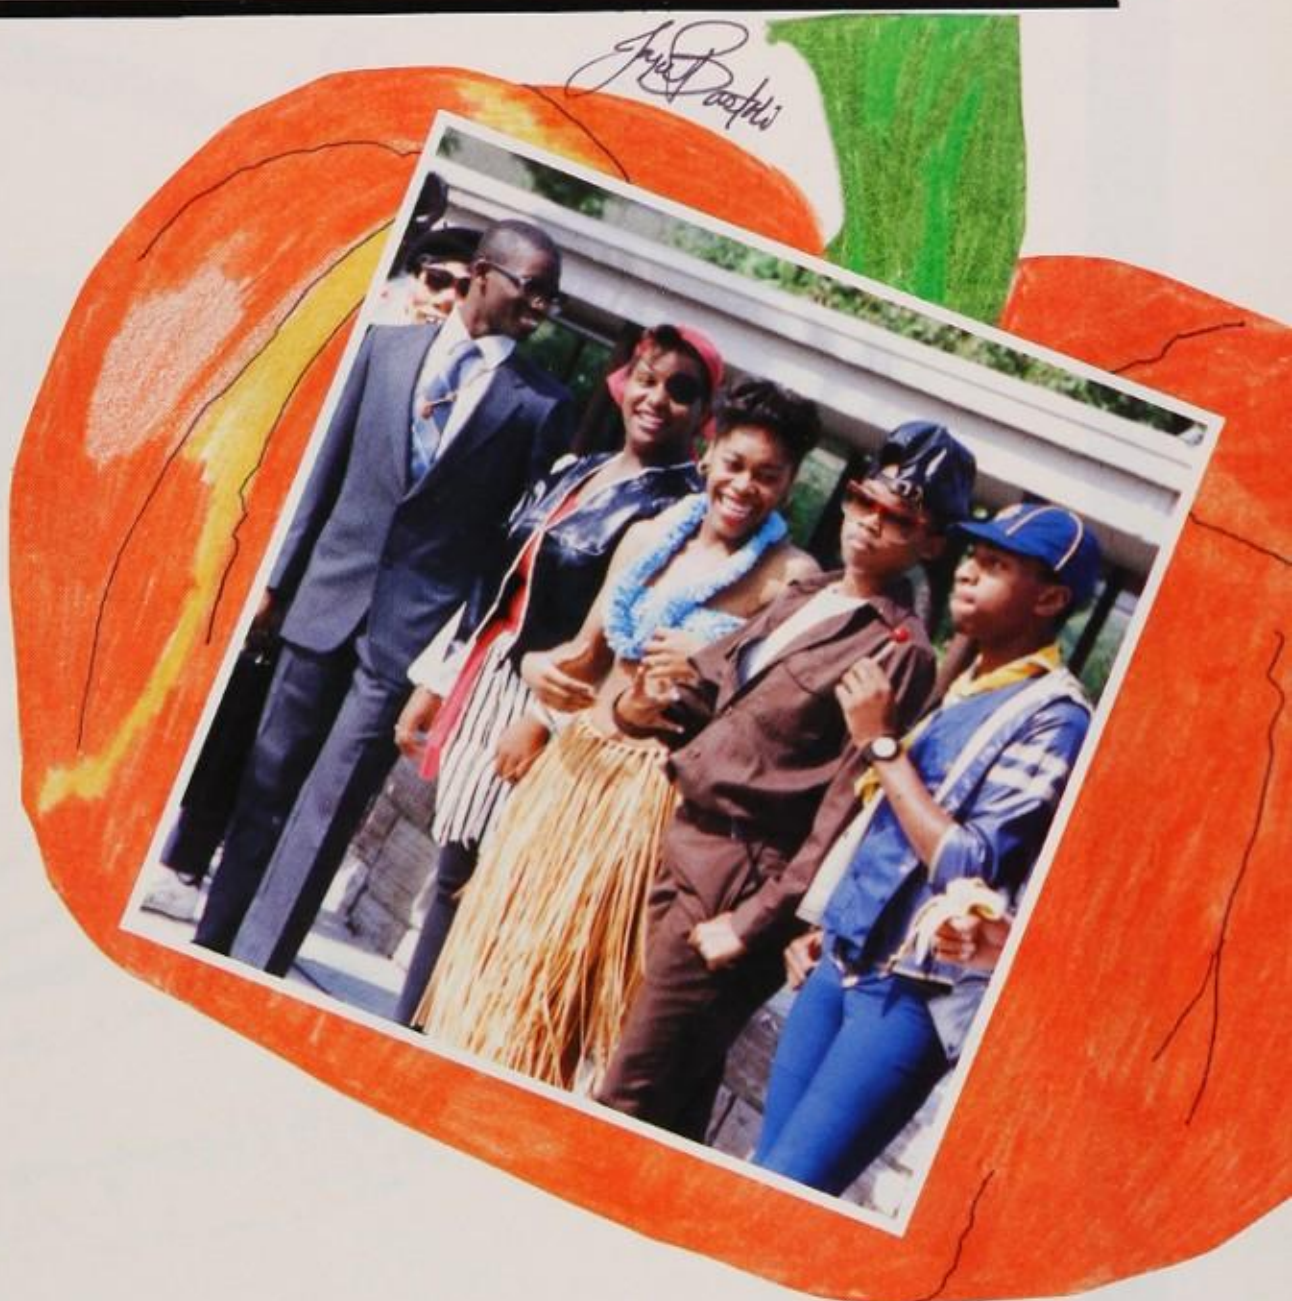

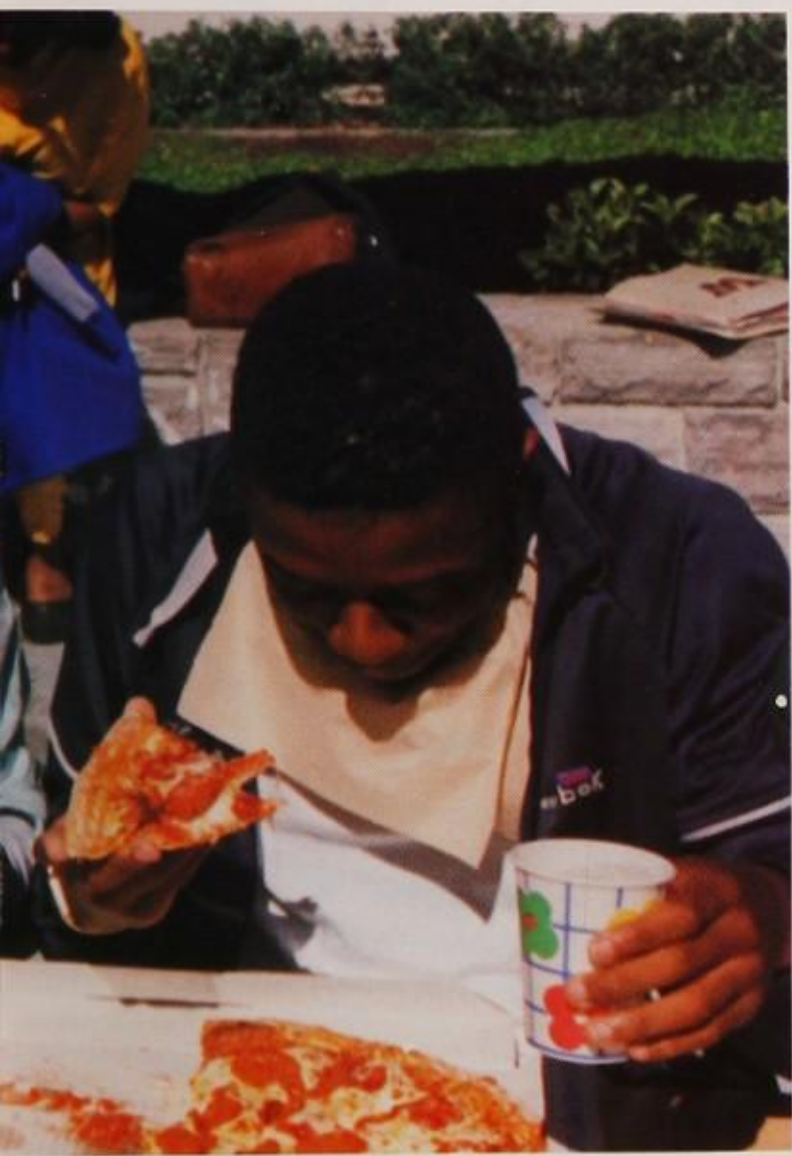

The Hawaiian Chapel of Paradise was another noon activity that many will not soon forget. Students were able to marry a friend for the small sum of seventy-five cents.

The Alumni came home and friends who hadn't seen each other since graduation gathered in the stands. They hugged, kissed, and then proudly recited the cheers they will never forget. This was the time when old faces could be recognized and fresh new faces could be seen. But whether they were Alumni or current students, they all had that W.H.S. pride.

Annually, a Homecoming football game is played. The anticipation of a princess and prince representing the underclassmen is overwhelmed by the crowning of the Queen and King.

Everyone needs a place to call his home. Whether you are black, white, green, or even Hawaiian, you can always feel comfortable at Westchester. The Homecoming floats showed the group effort put forth, and the smiling faces displayed nothing more than happiness. Even the sounds of the band's horns rose to this occasion. Seemingly, the cheers of the Homecoming crowd didn't affect the concentration level of football players. A final score of 20 to 3 spoke for itself.

One thing that is crucial to a high school is spirit and Westchester sure has a lot of it. With Cheerleaders, Drill Team, Short Flags, and Tall Flags, there was plenty of spirit at football games, basketball games, as well as other activities. The Comedettes brought much spirit and pride to C-Town with their cheers and performances. The girls showed their audiences that they were really having fun out there, and that their long hours of learning new routines and perfecting them definitely paid off. They always were bright and smiling as they moved with accuracy and smoothness. Without these spirit groups, Westchester just would not have been the same.

Comet teams

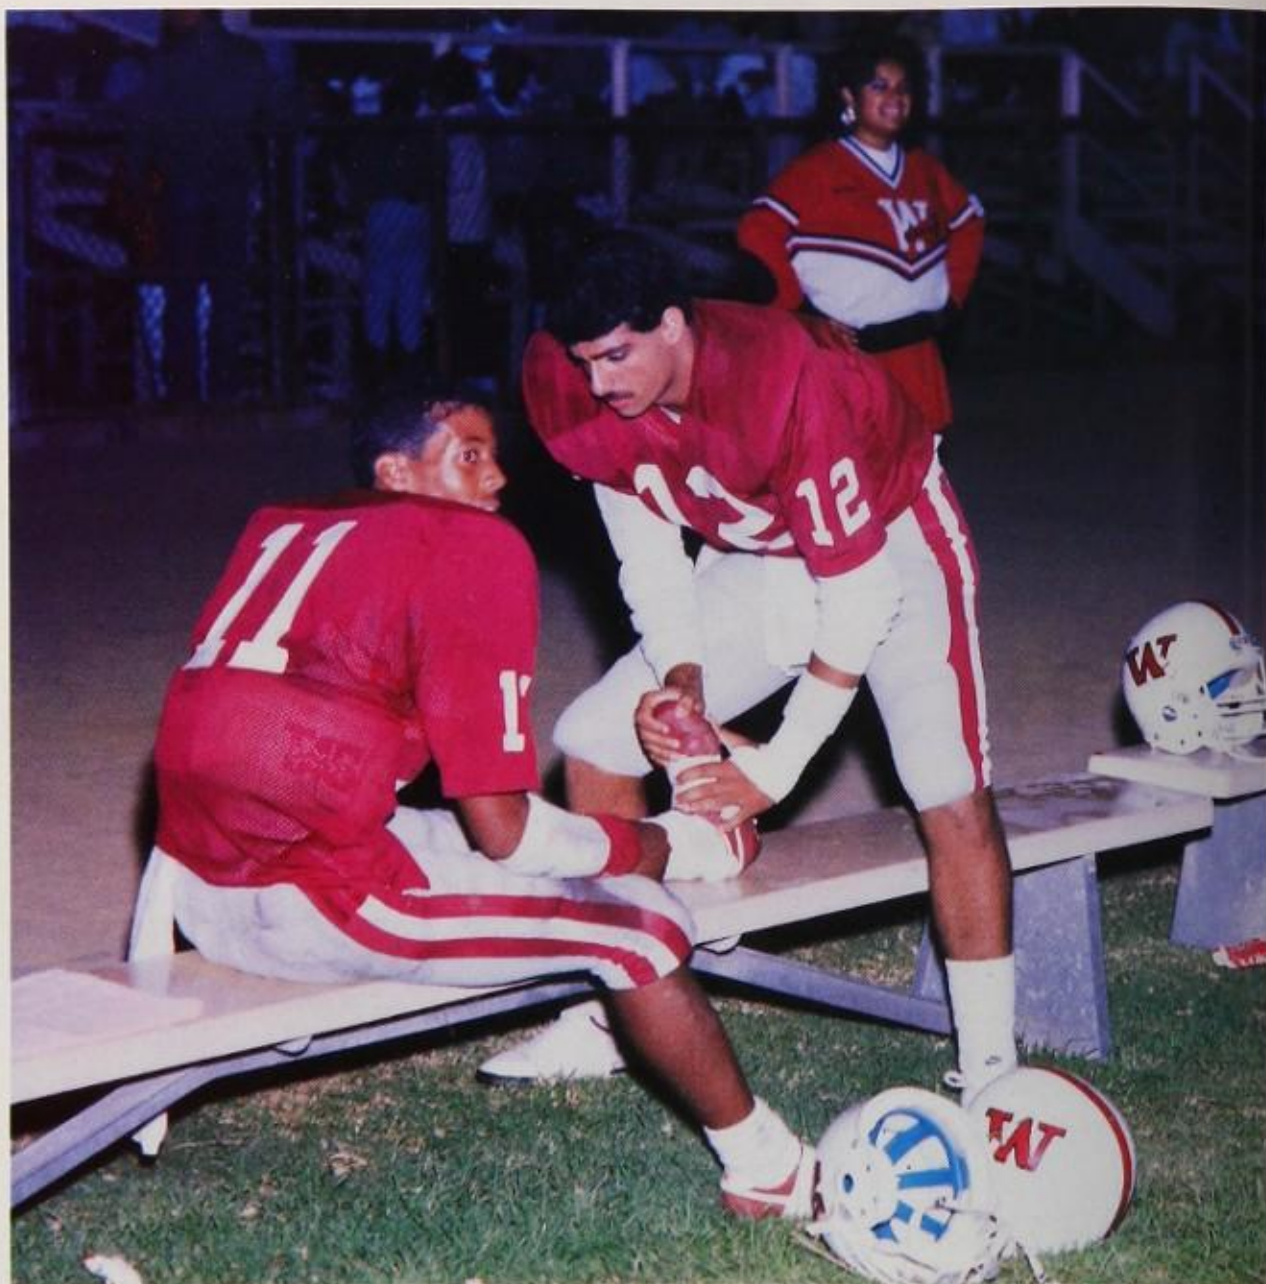

Make a Difference

Sports were a vital part of WHS life. Whether it was football or soccer, it instilled spirit in all.

Our athletes practiced many hours to meet the challenges that their sport provided. This took much of their time, but school work was not forgotten. Comet athletes had to keep a "C" average.

It was enthusiasm and skill that insured the success of the Comet teams.

This is the story of the Little Red Comets. Their season started with, "We think we can," and ended with "WE CAN and DID!" The 1987 team was a pot of gold. Providing locomotion for the Comets was the starting offensive line weighing in at a beefy total of almost 1,240 pounds! At right end Bryon Smith provided much of the steam which kept the Comets' drives going. Behind this powerhouse of mass and strength were the backs Damion Smith and Bart Dowarshai who carried for touchdown after touchdown. Key players at fullback and railback were Corey Henry and Kevin Owens respectively.

Not just along for the ride there were those who didn't play as much, but practiced just as hard. There were times many of them had planned to "give up" but they hung in there just the same.

Led by senior team captain Kimani Colander, the Bee football team played an excellent season.

Although they may not have been physically equal to the Varsity team, the Bee team had spunk and much spirit. They had an overall record of 6-3, finishing third in the league. Seven players made the league team.

They were not only a close team on the field, but off the field as well. One could often see the team go out together on Fridays before the game to eat lunch. We were proud of our Bee football team, and hope to see even more support for them next year.

Varsity player Trisha Stafford drives to the basket in their first league game against Manual Arts.

Starting out as the top ranked team in the city, the Lady Comers played to their fullest capability. Unlike the previous season where the ladies ranked high in the pre-season polls, then slowly slipped to be the city's third place team, they won the City Championship. "Through experience, we realize that everyone goes out of their way to beat the best," explained senior Trisha Stafford. "Therefore, we must keep our heads into every game," added senior guard Tammy Story.

With their talent, along with the guidance of coaches Beverlie Pendleton and Darryl Barnes, the varsity team was bound to stay on top.

The team had a great deal of young talent, and with experience they will develop into athletes with greater understanding of the game of basketball. "Until then, we will play the best we can," said leader Keisha Willis.

a big smash!

Tennis, a much quieter Comet sport, was a game of forehands to volleys. With returning players from last year, varsity had four singles and three doubles teams. Big return

The pattern of previous years held. The girls' tennis team was in the toughest league in L.A. They did an outstanding job of holding their own but could not defeat the top team.

"The reason Palisades and University beat us every year is because most of their players have been playing for a long time and they have more experience," number three player Rikki Hughes said.

The team began the season on a promising note by winning nearly all of their practice matches. It finished the season tied for third place with Venice.

Although they didn't beat Pali, the games with Uni were close.

"We had enough talent and good teamwork, but our concentration was just not there," Hughes said. "Perhaps next year we will be able to beat Uni."

Soccer makes a

Kicking Difference

Coming in fourth place in the Western League, the Comers tried their best. They practiced every-day for three months. Coach Smith worked the players hard, but the team was weak in players who could score.

The team's strength was their defense. Louis Quant, a senior who plays right half, said that many of the team members didn't have experience because they were freshmen and sophomores. Isaac Gharibeh and Ted Wakeman, both juniors, were the team captains. The Comers were disappointed in not going to the finals.

The team was proud to have kept the baseball tradition alive. Hours of practice and conditioning started way back in September and definitely seemed to have been worth it. Coach Kasparian pushed as hard as ever. There was only one season to play and there would have been something missing without all the yelling, screaming, and bad jokes of our Kas.

Some time later in our lives we will look back on the 1988 season and smile. Baseball isn't always about winning or losing, but working as a team, hustling as a team, and fortunately, having fun as a team.

Leadership makes A difference

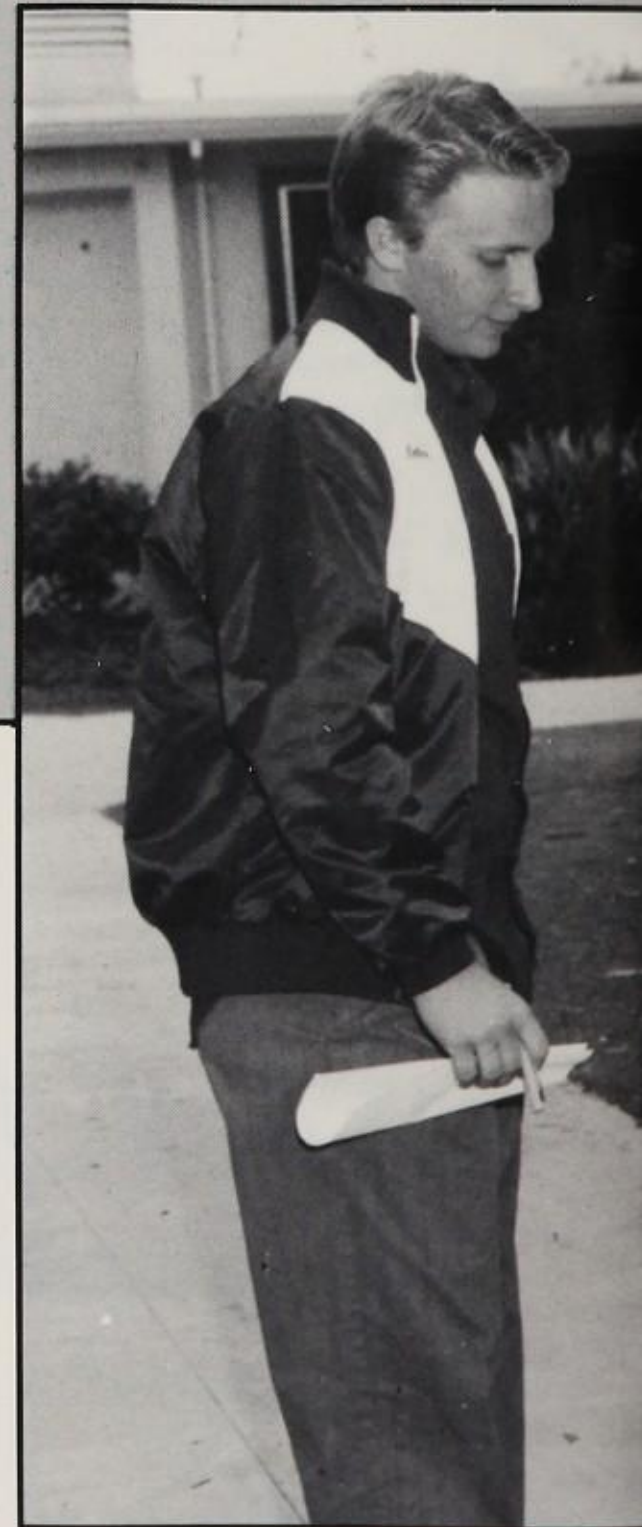

Newly elected A.S.B. President, Peter Morris, addresses the Welcome Back Assembly.

Like the Marines, Leadership only wants a few good men and women. This year they got their wish. In addition to creating a class senator representative program, Leadership was in charge of such class activities as the "Chapel of Paradise" where the students were "married" and Senior Week which included everything from picnics to orange passes.

To be in Leadership one must have been elected by one's peers. These elections were held each semester. In addition to the thrill of "making things happen," Leadership members received service credit as well.

The Senate, the Junior Steering, and the Senior Steering Committee were some of the students behind WHS policy and activities. The Senate, WHS's first, was responsible for discussing school policies that were in question and planning events such as dances and Homecoming Week. The Senate was made up of elected representatives from every homeroom.

The Junior and the Senior Steering Committees planned for their prom, graduation, and other class activities. Not only did they decide what to do, but they helped with financing through fundraisers.

Knights and Ladies is an honorary senior service organization. It consists of 10% of the senior class, not to exceed 50 members. To be eligible, applicants must have outstanding service, citizenship, and leadership, and at least a "B" average. A member is required to wear his or her black sweater on the specified meeting day and when representing the club in an official capacity.

Making this year unique, the Knights and Ladies started a new tradition of nominating a Teacher of the Month. Each month, a different teacher was chosen to wear the K & L sweater on a Thursday and be the keynote speaker at a meeting.

YCS

(Youth Community Service)

Youth Community Service, sponsored by Mr. Landre, was an organization through which students could improve their community and make friends while they were doing it. YCS's main goal this year was to wipe out graffiti all over Los Angeles. Wipe Out Weekend involved hundreds of students from the Los Angeles Unified School District.

Students attended a number of workshops and leadership training retreats, which helped them develop leadership skills to apply to community service projects in their high schools and communities. Students knew that what they did made a difference.

White X-mas

Twenty-six Comets had a very white Christmas this year.

For four snow-capped days and nights they braved the slopes of Mt. Bachelor, Oregon, where the mountains were almost as high as their spirits.

Staying at the posh Sun River Resort Area, the skiers lived in the lap of luxury during their trip.

"The houses were so nice. We had a fireplace and everything," Alexis Johnson said.

"I've never seen so many mink coats in my life," agreed John Garnes with awe.

In addition to hitting the slopes, these Comets had the option of swimming, playing raquetball, volleyball, or just relaxing in the jacuzzi. Copy by Carol Zwiebach

Comet Staff

We yell. We scream.

And we work with knives.

We're the award-winning Comet newspaper, where stress, pressure, and deadlines are all in a day's work.

Why do it?

"Even though I do a lot of work that no one ever sees, it's a great experience. You get to work with a lot of people and feel the 'essence' of the journalism experience," staff advisor Esther Hugo said.

In addition to feeling the "essence" of journalism, the Comet staff experiences the thrill of seeing their names in print.

Behind The Scenes

The Comet News Network (CNN) was an exciting new cable channel which was the first of its kind. The show aired on the local cable channel several times, and the CNN staff experienced the wonderful world of off-camera up close.

"We do our own editing, filming, lighting, sound, directing, acting, you name it, we do it. It's a real learning experience," class member Eryka Mathews said.

According to one of the many CNN viewers, their hard work has definitely paid off.

Although the show was indeed entertaining, CNN's main purpose was on a more informative note. "We hope to bring Westchester High School to the Westchester community," advisor Esther Hugo said.

It's been 12 long, hard, wonderful years, and the cramped space of 25 "Senior Last Years" we are given for our Good-Byes is simply not going to be enough room to say all that needs to be said. And so the following is sort of an Autobiography. I'm not putting my name on it because those of you who know me should be able to figure out who it's from & which parts apply to you. As for those of you who don't know me, I'm quite sure that you won't understand this, and that's fine because it's probably none of your business anyway...

IN THE BEGINNING...

A BLUE MOON

ON THE DAWN OF ONE COOL
WINTER'S NIGHT,
WALKING ALONG THE SEASHORE,
I NOTICED IN THE OCEAN SHIMMERS OF MOONLIGHT.

GAZING UP I SAW
WHAT SEEMED TO TWINKLE IN THE SKY.
'T WAS NOT A TWINKLING LITTLE STAR,
BUT A MOURNING MOON UP HIGH.

MOON SO BRAZEN BOLD AND BRIGHT,
HOW COULD YOU BE TROUBLED, YET STILL SHINE SO BRIGHT?

THE CLOUDS PARTED AS THE MOON BEGAN
TO CRY.
TEARDROPS OF DEEP BLUE RAIN
REFLECTED SHADOWS OF ITS SORROW, ACROSS THE SKY.

WINDS BEGAN TO HOWL AND WHISTLE THE MOON'S REPLY,
'IN A NOW DISTANT WORLD OF LOVE
MY BRIGHTEST STAR HAS JUST DIED.'

'THE ONE TO WHICH I WAS THE CLOSEST
I AM NOW PARTED.
BUT TO THE WORLD AROUND, I MUST SHINE
BRIGHT
ALTHOUGH I REMAIN BROKEN HEARTED.'

'I WATCHED AS THIS BRIGHT STAR SLOWLY FADED AWAY.
IT TURNED INTO A COMET,
PERHAPS A REWARD, FOR BRIGHTENING
MANY NIGHTS INTO DAYS.'

'UNLIKE OTHERS THIS COMET WILL SHOOT
ONLY ONCE,
AND IN ONLY ONE DIRECTION WILL IT GO.
BUT AS I SAW IT LEAVING, UPWARD BOUND
I NOTICED, IT LEFT A TRAIL OF LOVE BE-LOW.'

DAMON L. GREENE

'A QUESTION THAT PERSISTS, IS WHY IT HAD TO LEAVE ME?
OR FOR THAT MATTER WHY IT HAD TO DIE?'

I LOOKED UPON THESE QUESTIONS AS AN-SWERS
AND NOW TEARY EYED, ONCE MORE I SPOKE
TRYING TO COMFORT A BLUE MOON IN THE SKY.

IF THE STAR WAS JUST AS YOU SAY IT WAS THEN WHY BE A MOON THAT'S BLUE?
REMEMBER THE HEARTWARMING MEMO-RIES,
AND DO JUST AS THE STAR WOULD WANT YOU TO!

NO SOONER THAN THE DROP OF MY VOICE
TO INDICATE MY SENTENCE BEING DONE,
OVER THE HORIZON DISAPPEARED THE BLUE
MOON
AND UP CAME THE SUN.

THE LITTLE STAR IS MY MOM,
TO WHOM THIS POEM IS DEDICATED.
ONLY WITH GOD'S WILL, AND HER CONTINU-OUS LOVE
THUS FAR HAVE I MADE IT. I MISS YOU.

A.P. GREENE,
EARNED WINGS ON 5-24-87.

I "WUV" YOU FOREVER!

A BLUE MOON ... YOUR SUN,
DAMON LAJUAN GREENE, "BRITCHES"

These Are My Wishes for You

May you find serenity and tranquility
in a world you may not always understand.
May a kind word, a reassuring touch, and a warm smile be yours every day of your life, and may you give these gifts as well as receive them.
May you find time in each day to see beauty and love in the world around you.
May you find enough inner strength to determine your own worth by yourself, and not be dependent on another's judgment of your accomplishments.
May you always feel loved.

I looked at you today
and saw the same beautiful eyes that looked at me with love
when you were a baby
I looked at you today
and saw my beautiful daughter no longer a baby
but a beautiful person with a full range of emotions and feelings and ideas and goals
Every day is exciting
as I continue to watch you grow
And I want you to always know that in good and in bad times
I will love you and that no matter what you do or how you think or what you say you can depend on my support, guidance friendship and love
every minute of every day

I love you my beautiful daughter

Experience

Whenever you think to be
Your inner self the true,
It's but a dream you see
That is misleading you.

But when you think to be
Hopelessly lost,
You are nearest to what You're longing to be most.

Congratulations, and love always
Grandma and Grandpa Tolnay

To Erika S. Hoston:

It's hard to believe that you're almost grown!

We wish you

Happiness, and the continued ability to bring happiness to others,
The patience to allow your dreams to come true,
The determination to succeed in whatever positive path you choose,
The independence needed to grow as an individual,
Then, the wisdom to select a husband worthy of sharing it with.
We pray that all your indecision evaporates quickly, and that your choices will be certain and correct for you.

We wish you a lot of common sense in this crazy world, and the compassion and strength to love everyone.

We are very, very proud of you Erika! May God bless you!

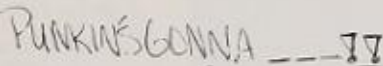

Love,
Mom and Dad

YETTA LAVETTE TAYLOR

This is the start of a lifetime. You made your way through the beginning of life, and now life really begins!

We love you! Mom, Dad, La Joyce, Jerry Anthony,
Cindy, Ronnie, and Tammi

Dyana, hey, school is finally over! Hawaii here we come. Well, it's been three years since we met and have become friends. We've been through some rough times. And we've had good times. Dy, we have so many memories together. Let's never forget them. You've always been there when I needed you. Thanx. You're my best buddy and I'll always be here. Our friendship will last forever. nothing can stop it I love you best friends always!

Karan

I wanted to thank my mom and dad for everything - Thank you, I couldn't have made it this far without you love, support and encouragement. I love you both.
Karan, I love you, we've gone through some great times together - Best buddies forever, right! Thanks for being there whenever I needed you. We're off to better things.
Kristi, everything will work out, I promise you, I'm gonna miss ya!
Lemecia, Thanks for being my friend and your advice during one rough time in my life, and that goes for you too Kristi and Karan.
Sweetheart, I'll always love you, no matter what happens to us, you are too special to me to let our memories die. I miss you and love you. Hurry home so I can B.Y.F.W.

Memories of You

Memories are like sunshine, saved up for rainy days, they cheer and brighten living in a million happy ways. So when I'm feeling lonely or when I'm feeling blue, I'll make a little sunshine with memories of you!

Kristi and Lemecia, it's over . . . Finally. Well, we've gotten a lot closer in the past year and I'm glad. You guys have been great friends. I know we've been through some bad times but I'm glad that we worked them out. I hope that we can stay friends after high school. Oh yeah, remember memories of "1987" (the pagent, the summer, all those nights sitting up and talking about guys, etc.). Thanx for everything.

Love,
Karan

Lori, I know that you're not here in California but I wanted to write you a little something in my yearbook to let you know that I think of you. I wish you could have been here to graduate with us. I love you.

Karan

P.S.: Remember all the memories you had in the summer of '87."

Dyana, Karan, Lori, Lemecia, & Kristi

Angie, hey, I almost forgot about you. Just kidding. Angie, we've been friends for a long time. We've had a lot of fun together. Remember the memories of the corner. I love you, Karan.

My Cameos of Memories

These are my treasures kept apart, cradled in velvet in my heart, graven profiles, picture clear, perfect moments, priceless dear, etched in ageless time to be - My Cameo of Memory.

The hours I have spent with you, the tender times, the fun times too, the summer roses and the rain, the laughter and the precious pain, of loving you - your loving me - My Cameo of Memory.

These are my wealth, my warmth, my light, I keep them dream-close all the night. With finger tips of heart and mind, I trace each profile there defined - these treasures none can take from me - My Cameos of Memory.

To: DANIELLE CURLS

Dear Dani,

As you end this "high school" season of your life, we want to assure you of our unconditional love and acceptance, and as you enter the next season of young adulthood, you can be sure of our unending love, encouragement and support.

Besides our deeply felt love, we also admire your many positive qualities, among which are your intelligence, determination and sensitivity. You are also really cute and a barrel of laughs.

We love you!

Love,
Mom and Dad

You were mommy's little princess and you had the chubbiest cheeks I ever saw. Your smile and warm and loving heart are a gift from God that no one can ever take away from you. You are a very creative person with a talent for brightening a persons day. I love you and I thank you for sticking with school. I am very proud of your achievements and pray that you will continue to make a beautiful place in this world for yourself.

Love forever and a day,
Mommy

VERNICE JEAN MOSLEY

Bunny, you have a long way to go, please take it a little slower. I am glad that this is another in a long list of life's achievements for you and I pray that this will in no way be your last. Keep trusting in the Lord and never forget that no matter where or when you need Him he'll be right there. Smile, you have brought a great deal of sunshine into my life and I will always love you.

Love never ending and as deep as the sea,

Dear Akivia,

As you go through life reaching for your star, please don't forget the source that brought you thus far. Remember your guardian angel that gave you wisdom, comfort, and cheer. Don't forget the angel is just a whisper near, God gave the angel to you, and that his very presence means he loves you.

Yours in Christ,
Love,

Friendship Forever

One of Paul Green's many lunchtime habits is throwing out Angie Jones.

Seniors Taisha Plaine and Lea Randle celebrate their friendship through the four years at Westchester.

Daphney Polk and Emily Oster are just happy to be out of class.

We will miss the cafeteria entertainment of seniors Natasha Walker, Mechele Pellebon, and Melanie Watson.

Means.....

"... someone to trust and be there to listen to your problems." -Denise Sanchez

"... special events; events like no other; shared with someone just as unique." -Ted Wakeman

"... eating fried chicken in a donut shop." -Fran Tain

"... being there for someone when they need you." -Carlos Bo-horquez

"... passing our gum in class." -Jody Burns

"... someone to share my appreciation for plaid." -Eric Upshur

"... good times, always." -Steve Raack

Juniors Kyung Choi and Ashley Nathan dream of their last high school summer.

Juniors Felicity Schaeffer, Joyce Bastoli, Nicole Barnes, and Tracie Crothers are confident their friendships will last one more year.

Pam Atherton and Robert Ramsey have tropical fun at nutrition.

Seniors Alexis Johnson and Parry Ramsey show us their brights.

Colophon

Flight '88 is the thirty-second volume of the yearbook of Westchester High School. This 249 page book was printed by Herff Jones yearbook, Inc. at their Logan, Utah plant. A press run of 1000 with a trim size of 9 inches by 12 inches was printed on 80 pound Bordeaux paper. The cover is a four color lithograph with protective lamination and was originally designed by Senior Christine Semelroth. Portions of the book (48 pages) were printed in full color. All captions and copy were done in Serif-Gothic type. The book was sold for $30.00.
